EASTMAN TOLD HOW GIRL DIED

BALTIMORE, Md., June 26.—The letter that Robert Eastman, the fugitive New York broker known as Emmett E. Robert, wrote to his wife before he committed suicide while under suspicion of having killed Mrs. Edith May Thompson Woodill, was made public by States Attorney Turner when the inquest over the body of the slain woman was resumed to-day.

It was as follows:

Vinnie—Take this money and go at once to McDaniel, Talbot County, Md., and claim my body and all my property. The property consists of twenty-two acres of land and a bungalow. There is also a motor boat. Have a sale and convert the whole thing into cash. I don't [illegible] a cent excepting for the [illegible] pump, etc., which Shanaly [illegible] in of Easton will be glad [illegible] as it is not broken, just as it was shipped.

Little girl, I had no hand in the tragedy. Was there and removed the evidence after the other two couples fled. I did this for self-preservation and am hunted. The victim was my particular friend and we were well mated. Have only known her three weeks. We all, that is, two men and two other women from Annapolis, went to the bungalow for a time.

Slain with Wine Bottle?

Everyone got full excepting Edith and myself. Edith tried to win one of the girl's fellows, and was hit three times on the side of the head with a full bottle of champagne and the fellow hit once. The man did not come to for an hour. I was left with the corpse and cannot take a chance for the trial. Life to me is very bitter, and I will pull down the shades and my good-bye. You can claim my property and say as little as possible, but get it. I am awfully sorry for you and our boy, and I have been hustling madly to make your path clear, but fate is against me.

Take Pennsylvania railroad to Easton, Md., and then change to B. C. & A. Don't neglect this, the property is valuable.

Eastman's body was buried to-day without the attendance of friends or of his widow. The body was laid in a grave near the bungalow where the murder took place, because no church would permit the interment to take place in its graveyard.

Mrs. Eastman went to St. Michaels

ITEMS IN WILL OF FR. DALY CUT BY COURT

Judge George in the probate court to-day struck several thousand dollars off the items submitted in the third account of the executors of the estate of the Rev. Patrick J. Daly, who was pastor at St. Francis de Sales church in Roxbury when he died. The executors, Rev. William P. McQuaid and Rev. John D. Tierney, had been paid $6,430 each by Charles I. Quirk, the attorney for the estate. The court cuts their allowance to $3,000 each. Quirk presented an account for $21,440 for his fees, and this is cut to $3,000. This will cause the payment back to the estate of $20,900. Father Daly was founder of the Daly Industrial Home and had built several churches in the city. He was also a lover of thoroughbred horses and left quite a stable of the kind. The sale of twelve horses for $1,975 is also the basis of a complaint from heirs in Dublin, Ire. In a letter to the court they say that the animals should have brought more, they also object to the payment of $1,196 to W. L. Spears of Lexington, Ky., for the board of the horses for all months in 1908. The payment of $4,000 to Rev. Bernard R. Daly is also opposed on the ground that it was not a bequest in the will.

It is probable that the differences of the various interests in the will will take an appeal to the Supreme Court. There are several heirs to the estate in this country and in Ireland. Father Daly left properly valued at $828,767, and this has now shrunk to $181,698, plus the $20,500 pruned from the accounts.

Items which have been paid out of the estate in prior accounts include: To Francis M. Campbell, clerk of the Superior Court, $1,050 for services rendered heirs; $500 to Attorney M. J. Jordan, for heirs; $400 to Casey and Jones, attorneys for heirs, and $5,000 to Attorney Quirk for the estate.

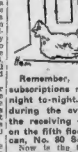
WORLD TOUR CONTEST CLOSES AT MIDNIGHT! LAST CALL FOR VOTES!



NOW or never, boys and girls! This is the last day in the Race Around the World contest. To-night at midnight the last vote will be taken and then the polls will be closed and the contest will be at an end.

Remember, all of your votes and subscriptions must be in before midnight to-night. All day to-day and all during the evening, up to midnight, the receiving ballots will continue on the fifth floor of the Boston American, No. 80 Summer street.

Now is the time to turn in as many votes as you have, as many as you can. You do not need to wait until midnight or near that hour. NOW is the time to turn them in. Get them in early and avoid the rush at the last minute.

No one will know where any boy or girl stands on the list until all the votes have been counted and all the totals verified.

If you have votes, turn them in now.

Those who have less than twenty-four hours left in which to make your showing. You have less than twenty-four hours in which to show exactly what you are made out of, less than twenty-four hours in which to prove that YOU, above all the others possess proper qualifications to represent the BOSTON AMERICAN and the New England States in the Race Around the World, tours to Europe or the American flight-seeing trips.

Candidates Working Hard.

It means much to you to win that distinction. It means everything to you. Remember that every boy or girl in the contest, especially among the leaders, has been and is working as hard as he or he knows how and trying to win a place as high up the top of the list as possible.

There have been several important changes in the list since it was published last Sunday—due, of course, to the efforts of those boys and girls to get to the top.

Unless you have been working as hard as you possibly can and unless you have been turning in votes as fast as possible, then YOU have been passed by some boy or girl that has been working steadily.

To-day—the last day of the contest, offers the last opportunity for you to regain your lost position, offers the last opportunity for you to get to the front.

You must poll all of your votes, all of your subscriptions before midnight.

Remember that each hour has only sixty minutes and that they are too precious few

INSANE CRIMINALS ESCAPE

CONCORD, N. H., June 26.—Charles Chapman and Joseph Gouin escaped from the Concord Insane Asylum early to-day by knocking down a keeper and taking his keys. Both are desperate men with criminal records.

Armed keepers are in search of them. The police of Portsmouth, Dover, Nashua and other cities in the State have been notified to look for the fugitives. It is feared the two are armed and will put up a fight before succumbing to capture.

The keeper who was overpowered was Night Watchman Othelo D. Johnson. He was cleaning up in the corridors when, contrary to the rules, he allowed Chapman to come out of his room to assist in the work. When the inmates of teh asylum go to bed their clothing is locked up for the night. Johnson let Chapman get his clothes.

Felled by Blow.

Then Chapman suggested they clean Gouin's room. When they entered it Chapman felled Johnson with a terrific blow in the face. Chapman and Gouin tied the keeper with bed sheets, partly stifling his cries with the linen.

Taking his keys they first secured Gouin's clothing, then left the criminal insane ward and got out of the building by means of the fire escape. Their departure was not known for several minutes, when one of the other keepers heard Johnson's cries for help.

Yet last reported of the two fugitives they were seen entering the dense woods near the aristocratic St. Paul's School for Boys.

Superintendent Charles F. Bancroft, who was one of the government alienist experts in the Chester S. Jordan murder trial in Massachusetts, has offered rewards of $100 each for their capture.

Both Desperate Men.

Chapman is a Portsmouth man who was indicted for attacking a woman in a particularly atrocious manner. The trial judge committed him to Concord Asylum to be observed regarding his mental condition. He escaped last January, but was soon captured in North Berwick, Me., and brought back to the asylum. He has been regarded as one of the most dangerous and crafty inmates of the institution.

Gouin was one of the two men in the famous Rockingham Junction train fight of three years ago. He and another man going giving the name of John Doe committed a burglary in Dover and were overtaken at Rockingham Junction by Boston & Maine railroad officers in the melee that followed Doe shot and killed a trainman. He was sent to State Prison for life.

Gouin was sent to State Prison for twenty years, but was transferred to Concord Asylum on the ground that he was mentally ill. It was thought by many at the time that Gouin was feigning in-

The backbone of the hot wave that has kept Boston toasted for five consecutive days under the rays of a scorching sun is broken, and at noon to-day a ten-mile-an-hour northwest wind brought partial relief to thousands of sufferers.

The Weather Bureau promises more wind and rain, with a decided drop in temperature, for to-night and Sunday. The hourly readings of the thermometer showed a lower temperature of two to three degrees compared with yesterday.

The first death to-day was reported from East Cambridge, where an employe of the Revere Sugar Refinery dropped lifeless at his work, after he had complained of the effect of the heat upon him.

The man who committed suicide by leaping from the West Boston bridge yesterday while crazed by the heat was to-day identified as Patrick Barry, aged forty-five, of No. 103 Second street, East Cambridge.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GROUNDS, Washington, June 26.—The weather continued clear and hot here when the Washington and Boston teams clashed again this afternoon. The Boston players are highly elated over climbing into second place while away from home, and several of them were cheeky enough to remark that the team was going to stay there for the remainder of the season. Fred Lake said that was the kind of talk he wished to hear, and hoped to see his aggregation make a good battle for the flag.

The work of Umpires OLoughlin and Perrine has been so raw here that nearly riots have occurred, and during the excitement yesterday the latter made a remark that has resulted in a formal protest being died by President Noyes of the Washington Club, against his working in any games in which the local club is concerned.

The games have all been hard fought, and naturally the spirit has been running high. If the umpires get out of the city without injury they can consider themselves lucky.

RAILROAD BOARD HAS BUSY PERIOD

The special commission's plans for the abolition of railroad grade crossings in Lynn have been approved by the State Board of Railroad Commissioners. The board has been obliged, by reason of the illness of Commissioner White, to postpone its inspection of the grade crossings of the Narrow Gauge road at Orient Heights, which it is proposed to abolish. A hearing on that proposition will be held on July 1st. The commission is considering the petition of residents of Melbourne for the extension of the fare limit on the Boston & Northern street railway to the Methuen-Dracut line.

TALK OF ELOPEMENT NEWS TO LILLEY

Denying that he had come to Boston to consummate an elopement, John Lilley son of the late Governor Lilley of Connecticut, told inquiring friends that the only purpose of his visit to Boston was to witness the Yale-Harvard baseball game.

He further said that he has no matrimonial plans. The report upon which he was questioned were he made the denial was to the effect that Lilley and a beautiful Boston girl had been married secretly in this city.

HALF-HOLIDAY OF CUSTOMS MEN CUT

Over 600 employes of the customs department in this city are affected by a presidential order received by Collector of the Port Lorenz Sharp. The order takes away from the employes the Saturday half-holiday which they have been getting the year around, and makes it effective only in July, August and September.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, June 26.—Quite a portion of Boston's population which didn't disport itself in the wavelets at the various beaches and wanted to get where few breezes could get in good work, flocked to the old grounds this afternoon to witness the double attraction between the Boston Doves and Murray's bunch of Philadelphia warriors.

After the scorching weather the boys of Boston have had to see the games, they didn't mind it very much, but at that the bleachers seats were given a wide berth by the fans. Vim and snap was lacking to a great extent among the players on account of the intense heat.

Roy Thomas, the out fielder just secured by the Doves, played in centre field in one of the games this afternoon. This is the first game in which Thomas has taken part for sometime as he has been coaching university teams all the season.

POSSE TRAILS MAINE ROBBER

HAMPDEN, Me., June 26.—Sheriff White and Deputy Sheriff Garland of Bangor, at the head of a small posse, are searching the district around West Hampden to-day for an unknown man who, bent on robbery, last night attacked Mrs. Mary Prescott, aged seventy, who lives alone in an isolated part of the village, and after demanding her money, beat her over the head with a music roll.

He left without securing anything of value in Mrs. Prescott's home. The aged victim was discovered shortly after the attack. Mrs. Prescott described her assailant as a dark man wearing a handkerchief sailor fashion about his neck. The description corresponds with that of a stranger seen about the village yesterday afternoon.

KETCHEL FAVORITE OVER BILLY PAPKE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Coast betters to-day installed Stanley Ketchel a 7-10 favorite over Billy Papke in the early wagering on the outcome of the big battle for the middleweight title to be staged July 5 before Coffroth's Colma Club. Both fighters have been working for several days, but the recent clean-cut victories of the Michigan demon have boosted him highly in the estimation of sport followers here.

CAPTAIN C. P. MORRIS DEAD.

Heart failure caused the death of Captain Charles P. Morris of Charlestown, known as a pioneer fisherman and hunter about the lakes and forests of Maine. Captain Morris was a native of Nova Scotia and was seventy-seven years old. He had been a policeman and an employe at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

BOY TELLS KILLING OF HIS BROTHER

Heart-broken and weeping because he accidentally shot and killed his brother Robert, little Johnny Wright lies on a couch at his home, No. 32 Sopkston street, Cambridge, to-day, hardly able to tell just how the accident happened, because he himself was knocked unconscious by the kick of the gun. Johnny's head is in bandages, his face is cut and one eye is blackened as the result of the fracas. He is also suffering from a broken foot which he sustained five weeks ago by a fall.

John W. Wright, father of the boy, was in the room while Johnny was trying to tell the story of the fatal night in the rooms of the Harvard Theta Delta Chi Club house, his sister Margaret is trying to cheer him. The mother, who saw the shooting, is prostrated.

"After I had eaten some ice cream and cake," said Johnny, "I got up and took a double barrelled shotgun which stood in the corner near the table. I wanted to look it over, and I didn't think it was loaded. On the table were some shells, and I thought they had been taken from the gun.

"I handled the gun a moment, and then thought I'd pull the trigger to see how it worked. I cocked one hammer and snapped it down. There was a bang, and the next thing I knew was sometime later when Dr. Hall said I had killed brother Robbie. I don't know what I shot at."

The party at the club consisted of Mrs. Wright, Robert, John and their sister Margaret. It was Johnny's twelfth birthday, and the steward of the club had invited them, since he the little fellow had no errands for him, and he thought he would give the children a good time. Another boy with them was John Lawrence.

The facts were reported to the police. The funeral will be Monday.

HUNDREDS IN PERIL BY FIREBUG'S WORK

The lives of over a hundred people living in the thickly populated district on Walker, Wall and Russell streets, Charlestown, were endangered by the act of an incendiary early to-day who set fire to the unoccupied three-story wooden dwelling at No. 64 Walker street.

District Chief Pope found four distinct fires burning in the building—two on the second floor and two on the third floor, each of which was burning fiercely. It was over an hour before the flames could be placed under control and confined to the building.

Several people living in the neighborhood reported having seen a suspicious looking individual lurking in the vicinity of the house late last night or in the early hours to have been the one who applied the torch.

The fire loss is estimated at about $1,000.

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW OF LODGE ROBBED

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Valuable lace, an heirloom in the family, given to her by her mother, Mrs. McCauley, wife of Colonel McCauley, U. S. A., former military aide to the White House, has been stolen from Mrs. George Cabot Lodge, daughter-in-law of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts. Although the lace disappeared some time previous to the closing recently by the Lodges of their Massachusetts avenue home and their departure for their summer home at Nahant, Mass., no trace of the missing lace has been found by the detectives.

from New York, but arrived too late for the burial. She was met at Washington by her cousin, Leo Peddler, a newspaper correspondent, who will accompany her to the Maryland village and identified the body positively.

"My husband was no murderer," Mrs. Eastman said through her tears, "and he did not commit suicide, but was killed by the same men I am going to make every possible effort to clear his name for his own sake and the sake of our child. I will demand the letter left by him on the end and demand a full investigation as to the murder of Mrs. Woodill. I have retained a lawyer and hope that the murderer will be brought to justice."

She admitted that she and her husband had lived together for only five days, but declared that he left her and that she still loved him.

Were Friends for eYars.

A thorough examination of the letters of Eastman, found in his bungalow, has disclosed that the Young woman had known the broker for years, and that he yielded a strange influence over her. It was said to-day that he was acquainted with the secret of her parentage and that he employed this knowledge as a weapon to extort money from persons who desired teh facts to remain a mystery.

Letters to Eastman, scraps of writing in his own hand and various other bits of evidence lead to Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, the home of ex-Secretary Lyman J. Gage; New York, Boston, Washington, Minneapolis, Berlin, Paris and London. It is said that some of the documents of all this literature is made known it will involve many distinguished and wealthy people. It is further said that this new evidence will reveal the underling current of motive for the murder and point beyond doubt to Eastmand as the murderer.

Was Charmer of Women.

Eastman held lightly the affections of any woman. Not even marital ties worried him and in many diverse quarters he had a reputation as a charmer of young women. His exploits in the Tenderloin of New York as well as in the mast fashionable parts of Baltimore, Los Angeles and Chicago are said to have been legion.

When Eastman fled to Maryland last December and changed his name to Ernest H. Roberts, Mrs. Woodill was acquainted with the fact and corresponded with him. He went to the neighborhood of St. Michaels at her suggestion, it is alleged, and at his suggestion she came East from Los Angeles with her young husband and arranged to spend the Summer as Eastman's neighbor.

The authorities are attempting to apprehend two men and two women who live in Baltimore and Annapolis on the theory that they were present when Mrs. Woodill was killed.

At first the authorities were skeptical when the suggestion was made that Eastman had written the truth when he said Mrs. Woodill was killed by a blow from a champagne bottle in the hands of an enraged and jealous young woman. The testimony of reputable persons who saw a strange private yacht on Sunday on the river near Eastman's bungalow, however, has lent some color to the letters left by Eastman.

Sunday Orgy at Bunglow.

The letters go to show that an orgy was in progress last Sunday in his bungalow, and two men and two women had come down from Baltimore in a private yacht to attend the affair. At the bungalow they met Mrs. Woodill and Eastman. He tells in his letter how he placed the body on the bed in his house and then in distraction dragged it out across the porch, carried it a little way in his arms, placed it in a hammock and pulled it to the boat landing. He then lifted the body into his launch. He tied a kettle loaded with brick to the corpse and heaved it into Broad Creek."

State's Attorney Turner accepts the story of the disposal of the body as true, saying the letter telling of it is too graphic not to contain hard facts. He is not sure, however, that Eastman did not kill Mrs. Woodill.

DR. CASWELL ILL; FATHER DENIES ANY WOODILL MARRIAGE

Dr. Walter W. Caswell of No. 775 Boylston street, said to have secretly married Mrs. May Edith Thompson Woodill, who was slain at St. Michael's, Md., is prostrated at the home of his father in Meriden, Ct. He went there from this city, unable to stand the notoriety.

His father, H. F. Caswell, a well-known factory superintendent, issued a statement from his home at No. 76 Liberty street, Meriden, to-day in which he denied that his son had ever married Mrs. Woodill.

"My son was never the husband of Mrs. Woodill," said the elder Caswell. "While he knew Mrs. Woodill very well, he was not married to her. My boy is prostrated. The notoriety has been too much for him.

"I had Walter brought home and I know that he was suffering and needed to be with his family."

Home is Barred to All.

The Caswell home is barred to all, save relatives. All of the blinds on the first floor are closed. Everything is being done by the family to keep Caswell awpy from interviewers.

According to his brother, Caswell is very ill. He is said to be suffering from a nervous breakdown. Caswell left Boston late last night. He went directly to Springfield where he met his brother, H. H. Caswell, a medical student. He took a late train from Springfield and arrived at his father's home, shortly before midnight.

Every effort was made by Caswell's relatives to keep his arrival home a secret. Instead of taking the short walk to his home, Caswell was driven in a closed carriage to his father's residence.

Regardless of the denial of the marriage by Dr. Caswell's father the young man himself, so far as is known, never denied the marriage. The official story of Mrs. Woodill is known to his friends, follows:

The young woman first came to Boston in 1906 with her foster mother, Mrs. Charles H. Thompson of Mcfield, Me. They spent several months at Garrison Hall, the young woman taking music lessons. It was then that she met Dr. Caswell, who had just graduated with honors from the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

On the occasion of the visit here Mrs. Thompson took the girl with her to Newport, where Dr. Caswell followed her, either at the watering place or at New York he and Miss Thompson, as the girl was known, were secretly married.

CZAR'S VISIT TO EDWARD INSULT

LONDON, June 26.—The members of the Labor party in the House of Commons have issued a manifesto protesting against the approaching visit of the Czar to King Edward. They say among other things:

"We believe the visit is offensive to a great majority of the people of this country. We have no desire to interfere with the internal affairs of a foreign State, but when that government is maintained by a system of espionage that degrades itself by putting to death or sending inth exile its best and most public citizens and when it suppresses the least whisper of liberty by hangmen, spies and Cossacks of every kind, it is an insult to our national good name and to our self-respect that our sovereigns should receive in our name the head of such a State, especially while the personal approval of criminal agents has been placed beyond question."

DIVORCED WOMAN IS STORY'S BRIDE

LONDON, June 26.—Julian Story, the artist, whom Mme. Emma Eames divorced, and Mrs. Elaine Robins, who divorced Murray Bohlen of Philadelphia, were married with extreme privacy at the Marylebone registrar's office. The only witnesses to the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. Ackroyd, Mrs. Lawrence Pearson of Baltimore and Mrs. Arthur Pearson, wife of the newspaper proprietor. Mrs. Ackroyd and Mrs. Peats are the bride's sisters.

ALARM CLOCK, 50c

HIBBARD GETS FIRST 'SNIFF' OF NEW BOARD

The first official sniff of the new "Smelling Committee," otherwise the new Boston Finance Commission, was perpetrated to-day.

It is a sniff at Mayor George A. Hibbard, too. It is officially directed to the Mayor and aldermanic Council and deprecates the action of the Mayor in trying to force appointments to two present vacancies on the Boston Board of Assessors in the face to opposite recommendations for a smaller band by the former Financial Commission.

By the same token, this communication may be construed as an endorsement of the refusal of the Board of Aldermen to confirm the Mayor's appointment.

The first official statement of the new Financial Commission is as follows:

"To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council. Gentlemen:

"In three communications to the Mayor and City Council, dated respectively February 29, 1908; July 9, 1908, and November 7, 1908, the former Finance Commission recommended that the board of principal assessors be reduced in number from nine to five. (See Finance Commission reports, Vol. I, pages 219, 338 and 450.)

Plan Not Adopted.

"The City Council did not adopt the recommendation and the number as fixed by the city ordinances remains unchanged.

"On February 29, 1908, the office of one of the principal assessors became vacant on request of the Mayor and on April 30, 1908, the term of another expired and no successor was appointed in either case. The city has thus been enabled to save at the rate of $6,000 per annum, while the work of the assessors' department has been performed without any perceptible diminution of efficiency.

"On June 14, 1909, the Mayor sent to the Board of Aldermen for confirmation the names of two persons whom he appointed to fill the vacancies, but the board declined to confirm the appointments and voted, instead, to amend the ordinances so as to reduce the number of assessors from seven to five. This action now awaits concurrence or rejection by the Common Council.

"The commission is informed that the principal assessors have not asked that the two vacancies be filled, and there is no reason to believe that the interests of the city will suffer if they are left unfilled. On the other hand, the financial condition of the city requires that no unnecessary appointments be made.

Promotions Denied.

"The appointments in question are objectionable on other grounds. The commission is informed that in the present case the principal assessors were not asked to present a list of those of the first assistant assessors whose experience and ability might make them eligible for promotion to the higher positions. One of the difficulties in procuring the highest type of public servants is the general impression that the best men employed in the service has depended more upon political influence than upon merit.

"Promotion has been denied to employees in the lower grades who, though ambitious and worthy, lacked the political influence necessary to secure the higher positions while constantly outsiders who possessed political influence but lacked qualifications, have been favored by appointment.

"The results in such cases are disastrous because they have no effect upon but upon the efficiency of the department and the morale of subordinates. Finding that meritorious service, either loses hope, and consequently no stake to the good level of justice shown by the commission, recommends that the appointments be withdrawn by the Mayor.

By the Finance Commission,
(Signed) JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman."

MR. SHERMAN IN ICE CREAM CLOTHES

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Vice-President Sherman's hot weather clothes were the envy of some legislators to-day. Nothing like them was ever seen in the Vice-President's chair. The suit was of some blue material similar to that of which blue overalls are made. It was not beautiful, but it looked cool. Those who inquired learned that it was of cotton grown in Muskogee County, Ga., and completed in the same county. It was presented to the Vice-President through Representative Jamison, who comes from Muskogee County.

"His Lordship seemed to think he was fighting in Africa again," the butler complained.

In court, Lord Brooke explained that he received a letter last night which slightly ruffled his temper, and offered a verbal apology and a cash salve for the black eye.

"But I want redress," said the butler, demanding the summons: "I've been in His Lordship's service only a fortnight, and this is the second time His Lordship has knocked me down. It's too much of a good thing."

WORLD TOURS CONTEST ENDS AT MIDNIGHT

minutes left in which to make up any ground you have lost. Make your mark TO-DAY. Make your mark NOW.

Record-Breaking Trip.

Of course the big fight is for the trips around the world and for the tours to Europe.

The boys that win the trips around the world will be the two that receive HIGHEST on the list at midnight to-night, when the contest closes.

Two of these boys will go East, two of them will go West. Each will be accompanied by an escort of their own selection. The boys will be racing not only against each other, but against the clock and the New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

In each of these cities the Hearst newspapers are making arrangements for the boys around the world to break. If possible, the record of sixty and one-half days made nearly nine years ago.

In all probability the record will be broken—broken badly—and it is to be hoped that the boys from New England will be the ones to bring the record back with them. If tentative schedules and itineraries arranged now do not miscarry, the record will probably be set so low that it will probably not be touched in the lives of the fortunate winners of these tours.

Girls Also Active.

Quite as keen as the fight among the boys is that among the girls for the four trips to Europe. Never before was a tour such as this offered to the school girls of New England. Fifty days will be spent in sight-seeing among the capitals and the places of historic interest of continental Europe. It will be fifty days of solid enjoyment. The girls apparently appreciate the tremendous offer. They have demonstrated this by the hard and consistent plugging they have done in the past few days.

The struggle among the leading girls in the voting has been of such enormous volume as to call the attention more than once even as to just which will be found among the four fortunate girls at the top of the list.

The race for the American sight-seeing trips is also quite a great a bone of contention. From day to day new faces appear in the list of eligibles, new boys and new girls daily loom up from the tail end of the procession to threatening and commanding positions for a hop into the "Big 20."

Tremendous Voting.

The voting in this contest has proved a revelation. Never before in a contest in Boston have such enormous votes been polled, or has there such great activity been shown by the contestants in the last days of the fight. The interest among the grown up relatives and friends of the contestants, which has been growing right along, has reached fever heat. This has been shown by the inquiries made daily, both in person and by mail, with reference to the chances of this or that candidate in the tour; has also been shown by the subscriptions which are coming in by mail and are being brought in person by outsiders who are urging on the candidate to whom they want the vote value of that subscription credited.

Now is the time to get in your hardest licks. Now is the time to make your most vigorous attack upon the standing of the leaders. By proper and concentrated effort to-day, you may become a leader yourself. Keep in mind that today is the last day of the contest and that the polls close at midnight to-night.

ELSIE SIGEL SECRET BRIDE OF CHINAMAN

NEW YORK, June 26.—Elsie Sigel and Chu Gain, the restaurant keeper who supplanted Leon Ling in her affections, were married in Philadelphia, according to the latest information received by the police. This fact learned by Leon drove him to kill the girl, the police now believe, and also to plan the murder of Chu Gain.

A clergyman, living near the Sigel home told the police that a girl resembling Elsie Sigel and a Chinese answering the description of Chu Gain came to him shortly before June 9, the day of the murder, and asked to be married. He refused to marry them until he had communicated with the girl's parents. The pair left abruptly, saying that they were going to Philadelphia.

Police Captain Galvin, who knows Leon Ling by sight, is in Philadelphia to-day, presumably to ascertain facts concerning the supposed marriage and to try and locate Leon Ling.

Leon was well acquainted in the Philadelphia Chinese quarter, having lived there before he came to New York.

New Clew Discovered.

A new clew was discovered to-day in a pair of women's shoes, believed to have belonged to Elsie Sigel, which were found in a room on the third floor of No. 782 Eighth avenue, adjacent to the room in which the girl was murdered. The room was that of Sin Leung, the proprietor of the chop suey restaurant on the floor below.

Sing P. Lee, a Chinaman, to-day told the police that Leon Ling is on his way to California. A woman gave the information that Leon was in New York five days after the murder.

As the result of a third confession wrung from Chong Sing, the police now know the details of the interview that took place between Elsie Sigel and her Chinese sweetheart, Leon Ling, at No. 782 Eighth avenue, just before the girl was strangled June 9.

There is no doubt now that the young woman went to the room of the Chinaman to inform him that she had made up her mind to marry Chu Gain, the Chinatown restaurant keeper.

That this knowledge of the rival's success from the girl's own lips so angered the unsuccessful suitor that he killed her on the spot is established by a statement from Police Captain Carey.

Woman Tells Secrets.

"We know now that the murder was not premeditated," he said. "I am not at liberty to reveal the confession, but we have ceased to work on theory that Leon had previously planned the crime.

"We know enough about the conversation that took place between the Chinaman and Elsie Sigel in the room the morning the murder was committed to assure us that we are right."

Captain Carey did not make this statement to the newspapers, but the information came out through a woman friend of the Sigel family who called at police headquarters during the day.

The woman went to Captain Carey's office and asked to be shown a good photograph of Leon Ling, saying that she wanted to try and identify a Chinaman whom she had seen entering the Sigel home with one of the dead girl's relatives the Sunday following the strangling.

"That is the man I saw," exclaimed the woman when the picture of Leon was placed before her.

American reporters informed the authorities that Sing P. Lee of No. 42 Mott street is an important witness, as he visited Leon Ling's room on the day the crime was committed and again the next day and still again on the following Sunday.

Lee was discovered after a story was interviewed to the effect that he had arranged nearly two months ago to start a restaurant with Leon Ling, at Chong Sing's at No. 300 West One Hundred and Forty-fifth street.

Sing Lee Talks.

At this address the owner was found to be David Schechner of No. 321 East Sixty-First street.

Lee, who is a well-to-do English-speaking Chinaman, was found at the Mott street address. He readily admitted that he knew both Leon Ling and Chong Sing.

"I met Leon about three months ago in a restaurant that I owned at that time at No. 4 Bowery. He was introduced to me by Yung Ist as an enterprising young fellow who wanted to further the capital with which to open a restaurant up town.

"After talking with him on several occasions, I agreed to employ him at a salary of $60 a month and to give him an interest in the business later.

"We secured the place on One Hundred and Forty-Fifth street, and began to get things ready for the opening. Then I heard many stories about Leon. I was so much annoyed that I went to No. 782 Eighth avenue, about 10 o'clock the morning of June 9 to tell him that I would not have anything more to do with him.

"I knocked on the door of his room, but did not get an answer.

"That afternoon I returned to Leon's room around 6 o'clock and again received no response when I rapped on the door. Down again in the restaurant conducted by Sin Leung I was told that Leon had gone to Coney Island.

SCORES STRICKEN IN TORRID WAVE

soon, letting out thousands of employes, who flocked to the beach or country.

Rush to Seashore.

The North and South stations were busy places. Hundreds of men, women and children flocked to resorts along the North and South shores and the Cape, to stay over Sunday. Hundreds more are off to the vacation resorts for their Summer outing.

The toll of death in New England within the past twenty-four hours totals twenty-four, and the prostrations figure into the hundreds. A few prostrations were reported in Boston early today.

The rain that is promised is coming along the northwest and is due to the cool conditions existing in Chicago and Cincinnati, usually one of the hottest sections of the country, but which is now eight to ten degrees cooler than Boston.

New York has been cooled off by heavy rains and a wind at twenty-six miles an hour. This followed a temperature of 92, which dropped in less than an hour to 69.

Half Holiday for Workers.

Two firemen made conditions bearable in the North End by going about to hydrants and with a hose giving the neighborhood and such people as wanted it a shower bath.

For several minutes a stream would be played about through the big nozzle, and scores of half-clad children would stand in the cooling shower.

There is no station to-day and because of it the benches will be thronged and bathhouses will do a record business. All the big manufacturing industries in Greater Boston and practically all of the big department stores closet at noon or will give their employes a half holiday, and thousands will thus be free to seek cool spots as they choose.

The present record at the State bathhouse in Revere was made yesterday when 2,700 people went into the water. It is estimated that 10,000 took a dip at L street.

Shower Bath Not Opened.

People in the tenement district who patronize the North Bennet street bathhouse are aroused because the shower baths which were recently installed have not yet been opened. Hundreds have been turned away because arrangements have not been made to care for the crowds. But two men were on hand at this bathhouse and one of these, a ward Committeeman, had volunteered his services.

Daniel H. Slattery is the head lifeguard at the bathhouse and his duties are so great as to make it impossible to properly carry out the work.

The upper floor of the bathhouse has been recently equipped with showers, and the building is now the finest of its kind in the country.

No one seemed to know the failure to open the upper part was due to lack of employes or lack of funds, but the fact remains that hundreds of hot, tired North Enders were turned away, because the doors to these additional accommodations remained closed.

Move for Clean Beaches.

In discussing the matter Dr. Walter S. Mansfield, one of the trustees, said:

"It is a shame that such conditions exist. Now is the time for the people to use the baths and not next winter. I understood that the entire building was open; we certainly have plenty of money and plenty of help to keep it open. I shall look into this matter at once."

Dr. Mansfield also said that he had taken steps to stop the dumping of clay at the L street baths at South Boston, because he found the beach was being ruined for bathing purposes.

The Hot Season

By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES

THE folks that on the first of May
Were Winter coats and Sons,
Began to say, the first of June:
"Good Lord! How hot it grows."
At last two Fahrenheits blew up
And killed two children small,
And one barometer shot dead
A tutor with its ball!

NOW all day long the locusts sang
Among the leafless trees;
Three new hotels warped inside out,
The pumps could only wheese;
And ripe old wine, that twenty years
Had cobwebbed o'er in vain,
Came spouting through the rotten corks
Like Jolys' best champagne!

THE Worcester locomotives did
Their trips in half an hour;
The Lowell cars ran forty miles
Before they checked their power;
Roll brimstone soon became a drug
And boco-loose fell;
All asked for ice, but everywhere
Saltpetre was to sell.

PLUMP men of mornings ordered tights,
But, ere the scorching noons,
Their candle moulds had grown as loose
As Cossack pantaloons!
The dogs ran mad—men could not try
If water they would choose;
A horse fell dead—he only left
Four red-hot, rusty shoes!

BUT soon the people could not bear
The slightest hint of fire;
Allusions to caloric drew
A flood of savage ire;
The leaves on heat were all torn out
From every book at school,
And many blackguards kicked and caned
Because they said "Keep cool!"

THE gaslight companies were mobbed,
The bakers all were shot;
The penny press began to talk
Of lynching Doctor Nott:
And all about the warehouse steps
Were angry men in droves,
Crashing and splintering through the doors
To smash the patent stoves!

THE abolition men and maids
Were tanned to such a hue
Scarce could tell them from their friends
Unless their eyes were blue;
And, when I left, society
Had buret its ancient guards,
And Brattle Street and Temple Place
Were interchanging cards.

THE GYPSY HOROSCOPE—From the French of Phillip Maquet, containing a dramatic episode as fascinating as any in Dumas's works. This story will appear in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

ROOSEVELTS ARE OFF TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, June 26.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt with Miss Ethel Archie and Quentin Roosevelt sailed to-day on the Cretic for Gibraltar and Naples to spend the Summer on the Continent. They were speeded on their way by a crowd of neighbors who gathered at the Oyster Bay station to see them off this morning and also received the good wishes of numerous friends at the pier.

Mrs. Roosevelt has abandoned the original plan to journey up the Nile next Spring to greet Colonel Roosevelt upon his return from Africa and will meet him at home with her children about November 1st.

A Paris dispatch says Roosevelt's hunting exploits continue to amuse Paris. The Figaro prints a poem by Louis Marsolleau, which he calls "Teddy, the Exterminator." It pictures the mighty American hunter killing all the animals which flash across his sights, from eagle to serpent; telling that he may write a book." Marsolleau prays that Colonel Roosevelt be kept out of the Paris Zoo when he comes here.

CAPTURED AS PICKPOCKET IN POLICE CHASE

For an alleged attempt to snatch the pocketbook from the hand of Mrs. Jennie M. Lipsky, of No. 302 Spruce street, Chelsea, to-day, on crowded Tremont street, near Boylston, James J. Keating, aged thirty-five of South Boston, was arrested after an exciting chase through several streets of the business section of the city.

Mrs. Lipsky, who was in company with her young brother, Albert Arnoff, of No. 71 Savin Hill street, Roxbury, felt some one tugging at the pocketbook which she was carrying, and it was with difficulty that she was able to wrest her hand from the grasp that clasped it. Several passersby started in pursuit of the man, who was hastening from her through Head place. Crossing Officer Edward Q. Butters left his post and chased the man from Tremont street into Head place, where he finally captured him, after much resistance, at the door of a saloon.

A large crowd followed the prisoner to the station house, where Keating denied the charge and refused to answer many of the questions put to him.

HURT IN EXPLOSION ON TORPEDO BOAT

One workman was badly burned as the result of a gasolene explosion on the torpedo boat Narwal at the Fore River Shipbuilding yards at Quincy to-day.

The Narwal is one of three torpedo boats launched last week. She has not yet been accepted by the government.

The explosion damaged the gasolene engines, but did not damage the boat to any extent. According to employes at the yards the pump on the gasolene engine had been out of order ever since the boat's launching.

John Wadleigh, the injured workman, had just started the engine in an effort to ascertain wherein the pump was faulty, when the explosion occurred. He was buried to the ground, and badly burned about the face and shoulders.

Having telegraphic assurance of his concurrence from Finance Commissioner Curtis, the other members of the commission will get down to business to-day by electing a secretary and counsel. Robert J. Bottomly, who had a preliminary part in the work of the Committee of One Hundred on the new charter, is believed to be the choice of the committee for the secretaryship. The Commission, it is said, will not appoint a high-priced lawyer as counsel for ordinary legal purposes, but will stand ready to call in the best advice possible in the event of such necessity.

HARRIMAN FORCED TO ABANDON DAILY WALK

VIENNA, June 26.—E. H. Harriman was not so well to-day. Notwithstanding the curative air of Semmering Mountain, the New York financier suffered considerably from pain in the muscles of the back. He was unable to take his daily walk in the grounds of the Panhans Hotel.

Professor Strumpell is expected to arrive tomorrow for a consultation with Dr. Siegel, the hotel's physician.

BOSTON GIRL BANK BUSTER.

DECATUR, Ill., June 26.—That a fair Boston "affinity" was involved in the failure of Otis McNelly's bank at Blue Mount was hinted in the bankruptcy hearing here into the bank's affairs.

It was said that a loan of $12,000 to Mrs. Nellie Spangler Mustaine, said to be a Boston, Mass., author, was one reason why the bank accounts as a simple $12. Receiver Wilson said that he found in the bank vault a package of letters from Mrs. Mustaine to Banker McNelly which appeared to be love letters and requests for large loans.

The Boston directories and lists of literary publications fail to disclose the name of Mrs. Nellie Spangler Mustaine, author, of Boston.

ICE UP IN BROCKTON.

BROCKTON, June 26.—The four ice companies doing business here to-day advanced the price of ice five cents a hundred. Recently an order was introduced in the Board of Aldermen to compel the companies to abolish the slot system, which required customers to drop their money in slots in the teams before ice was delivered to them. The companies did so, but announced an advance in price.

"Commutation books" containing $5 worth of tickets are issued, however, with which ice can be bought at the old price of thirty-five cents a hundred.

You'll enjoy "Salada" Tea. It is the most delicious and refreshing tea in the world.

PLAN TO GREET ARCHBISHOP AS LINER DOCKS

Leading men of the religious, political and business world are to give a royal welcome home to Archbishop William H. O'Connell, when the noted prelate arrives here Monday morning on the White Star liner Romanic.

The reception to the Archbishop will be the opening part of a program, which, on Wednesday, will mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of His Grace's ordination to the priesthood.

At the pontifical high mass at the Cathedral on Wednesday morning the Archbishop will bestow the pontifical blessing which he is bringing to this country. The Pope went to the Archbishop's blessing in all Catholics in the archdiocese of Boston.

Greet Prelate at Dock.

Acting in accordance with the wish of the archbishop, those who are to greet him upon his return will not go down the harbor to meet the Romanic, but will gather at the White Star pier in Charlestown.

In the party will be Bishop-elect Joseph G. Anderson and Monsignor M. J. Splaine, bearing a delegation of seventy-five clergy of Greater Boston, and Francis A. Campbell, chairman of the committee of seventy-two laymen. The latter will include Dr. Thomas L. Harrington, Henry V. Cunningham, Thomas Dwight, Charles A. DeCourcy, Michael J. Murray, Henry Wentworth Jenks, E. Cotter, William Emerson, Pierce de la Rose, P. B. Magrane, Edward Sweeney, Dr. John F. Fleming, Joseph H. O'Neil, Charles Logue, David F. Tiller, Daniel L. Prendergast and Patrick F. Keating.

At the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in the morning there will be a pontifical mass, at which archbishop-elect Anderson will present from every church in the diocese. Archbishop O'Connell will be the celebrant of the mass.

Words of congratulation and welcome to the archbishop will be spoken during the mass by Bishop-elect Anderson, and at the close of the mass the archbishop will speak briefly.

Following the service the clergy of the archdiocese, all of whom will be present, will tender a reception to the archbishop.

Guest at Reception.

Early the same evening uniformed companies will march to the Granby street house and escort the archbishop to Mechanic Hall, where an elaborate program will be begun at 8 o'clock.

As the archbishop and his escort enter the hall a chorus will burst from the throats of more than 500 male singers, the pick of the choruses of the diocese, under the direction of Signor Pio di Luca, director of the Cathedral choir. John T. Whelan, organist at the Cathedral, will be accompanied.

TARIFF PLAN BOOSTS PRICE OF CLOTHING

NEW YORK, June 26.—Buyers of clothing have noticed that in the last few days there has been a marked advance in the price of all ready-made, as well as made-to-order suitings. The man who bought a suit a week ago for $25 would have to pay from $35 to $40 for the same suit to-day.

Staple worsteds and woollens have all taken a 35 per cent. rise in the last few days. In anticipation of the Aldrich tariff bill going into effect. The rise in price from $1.15 a yard to $1.50 a yard for certain wool goods has met with strenuous opposition among buyers and sellers, but the large retail clothing houses believe that in spite of the advance the goods will be successful.

A large buyer for an uptown clothing house said he was doubtful if the prices could be maintained, but he admitted that the manufacturers were up against the opposite extreme of the conditions of a year ago, when a pound of wool was cost 40 cents against 15 cents for the same raw material to-day.

"All sorts of commodities have advanced," said the buyer, "in the last few months, and the only man who has been prepared for the rise in the price now is the manufacturer who has loaded up with an abundance of raw stock, and is now reaping big profits. I believe that the rise which has taken place in the finished goods will stick, and will be maintained, but it is doubtful what will be the result.

"Everything is high, and a few more dollars to spend for a suit of clothes will not be such a hardship. The styles are improving, and the manufacturers will endeavor to please as well as introduce perfect machinery, for in spite of rising prices the population is steadily increasing, and there is a bigger demand every day."

The AMERICAN is the great Home paper.

MAYOR WILL AWARD LIGHTING CONTRACT

Mayor Hibbard and Superintendent of Streets Emerson declare they will award the street lighting contract to the concern submitting the most favorable bid on Monday. The opinion of the special common Council committee also is that lighting of the contract will be illegal without the authorization of the aldermen, but is not taken seriously by either the mayor or his superintendent of streets, especially after they received an opinion from Corporation Counsel Babson, who challenged every point made by the special Common Council committee. Mr. Babson asserted that the mayor and the legal end of that the authorization of the aldermen was not necessary.

PLAN BIG OPEN-AIR PAGEANT FOR BOSTON

COLCHESTER, June 26.—Louis Napoleon Parker, father of pageants, has been invited by a group of Bostonians to invent and organize a open-air pageant to take in or near Boston. A gentleman is en route to Liverpool to discuss the matter with Parker, who may be found the right end to undertake the task, especially as his father and father's father were Bostonians, provided a pageant be held for the arrangement could be found. Parker is directing the pageant at Colchester.

Good Things to Eat.

Trade in meats is very light in the market, for, as one dealer said, "folks seem to be eating nothing but bread and milk and berries this hot weather."

The display of fruit and berries is very tempting. The Georgia peaches, the first of the season, are beautiful in their pink yellow coats, and taste as good as they look. They are 40 cents a dozen.

Plums, too, are coming in profusion, and are luscious additions to the bill of fare. They are only 10 cents a dozen, and, well iced, very acceptable eating on a hot morning.

The first gooseberries are in, and one may indulge in some old-fashioned tart, which our English cousins serve with clotted cream.

There are big native strawberries and fine blackberries, raspberries and huckleberries. The three last named are each 20 cents a box.

Cantaloupes are 20 cents apiece; lemons a necessity at this season, are from 20 to 30 cents a dozen; limes, 5 cents each or 2 for 25c.

Watermelons are 50c each; pineapples from 15 to 25c each, and oranges from 30c to 60c a dozen.

Green peas run from 50 to 75c a peck; cabbages are 15c each; string beans, 15c a quart; summer squash 10 to 15c each; new potatoes are 50c a peck; cucumbers 10c each; leeks, turnips, carrots and beets much like a bunch; lettuce is 5c a head.

The summer boarder is abroad in the land, and one result is the high price of eggs, for he must have puddings, to say nothing of "new laid eggs" at breakfast. So for the real fresh nearby product the dealer asks 35c a dozen. Others are 33 and 30c, and 25c is asked for a dozen for "Capes."

For the best butter, the price asked is 35c a pound, with 32c for good creamery and 28c for dairy.

Lamb is still high, the hind quarters bringing 24 to 25c a pound; forequarters 15c a pound; sirloin roast of beef and steak are 25c a pound; rump steak 30c a pound; veal steak 35c a pound; corned beef from 14 to 15c a pound; fore quarters 10 to 12c a pound for other cuts. Ham is 25c a pound; bacon 25 to 27c a pound.

The supply of poultry is light and the prices are about the same as last week. There is more business in the fish markets, as members of the Bluy tribe, when properly cooked, make good hot-weather dishes.

Mackerel are not quite as plentiful as last week, or the demand is greater, for the price is now from 20 to 25c apiece. Striped bass are 30c a pound; cod and haddock 8c a pound; halibut 20 to 25c a pound; bluefish and swordfish each 25c a pound; smelts are 25c a pound; salmon 20 to 25c a pound; white perch 20c a pound; soft-shell crabs, $1 a dozen; lobsters 50c a pound.

SOCIETY IN BIG THRONG AT HARVARD

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

The great day is over, but while it lasted it was the greatest ever. At least that's what the majority of the pretty girls who thronged the Harvard yard, decked to the Stadium and attended the various spreads seemed to think.

Of course the Beck Hall spread was the smartest of all the functions, and it was there that the cream of society assembled after the exercises at the Stadium.

Every smart family in town was represented among the Harvard men giving the spread, and so, naturally, every smart set had and belle attended.

Quite the most conspicuous of the guests was Miss Edith Bird, the fiancee of Louis Agassis Shaw, one of the Beck hosts. She arrived rather late, having gone first to the exercises at the stadium. She looked especially well in a gown of old rose satin with draping of taupe chiffon. Her hat was one of those large black drooping affairs under which she affects with such charming results. She was chaperoned by her mother, Mrs. Charles Bird, who was the handsomest of all the matrons there, and was gowned in light gray satin with long lace coat and large black hat. Miss Edith Bird is a slender white frock was among the beauties there, and was surrounded by a host of admirers all through the evening.

Among the earliest to arrive was Alexander Higginson and his petite little wife, in white linen, and wearing a peculiarly picturesque little hat just the color and shape of those worn by the horses during the torrid wave, only hers was trimmed with a chiffon drape and pink roses. It was vastly becoming and the combination of that hat and her simple white frock made her look like a little girl in her early teens.

Mrs. Henry L. Higginson arrived shortly after and was most effusively greeted by her pretty daughter-in-law, who made one of the party she later entertained at the spread.

Barbara Burr, whose brother Francis was among the hosts, was pretty, in embroidered white linen, with a long white lace coat and a large black bucket shape hat. She was with her mother, Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, in taupe satin.

Mrs. Charles P. Greenough, 2d (Peggy Perkins) was among the younger matrons entertaining and looked especially well in a gown of white lace, over which was worn a long black chiffon coat. Her hat was of white, trimmed with varicolored roses.

Miss Alice Holt, who is a beauty of the blonde type, seemed one of the most popular girls there. She's bright, vivacious and especially good at repartee, so her admirers, who were numerous, were kept in a happy frame of mind.

A striking looking pair, arriving late and heartily greeted on all sides, was the fascinating young brunette matron, Mrs. Joseph Fairchild Eleanore Sears. Mrs. Fairchild was all in black, her gown of lace and chiffon and her hat, a large, drooping affair of black, completely covered with plumes. Miss Sears was in a becoming empire princess gown of white lace over white satin and a large white hat faced with white satin and the crown covered with dark green wings.

Miss Martha Bacon, who has been a conspicuous figure in all the gilded day affairs, was charming in a simple gown of white chiffon embroidered in Copenhagen blue and with Copenhagen blue sash and white hat trimmed with touches of blue of the same shade.

The engagement is announced of Miss Lucy Lee Collins, daughter of Mrs. M. J. Collins of Brookline, to Dr. Henry Whilcher of Dorchester. Mr. Whilcher is a graduate of Harvard University in this year's class.

The engagement of Charlotte Belle Cameron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cameron of New York, to Roger H. Lutz, son of Mrs. Louis Lutz of Dedham is announced.

Lieutenant Victor Stonewall Jackson, a paymaster in the navy, stationed at Boston, was the bridegroom at a wedding on Wednesday at The Maples, the home of Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Julia C. R. Dorr of Rutland, Vermont. The bride is the niece of Mrs. Dorr. Miss Agnes Bigler Pease, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Corbin Pease of Brooklyn. Miss Katherine C. Seward of Boston attended the bride as maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Susie E. Elrod and Miss Mary F. Stranahan of St. Albans. Miss Florence D. Hale of Brattleboro, Miss Dorothy C. Gage and Miss Olive M. Cary of Mount Holly.

The best man was Eugene C. Toby, U. S. N., stationed at New York. The Rev. Joseph Reynolds, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church in Rutland, performed the ceremony.

Friday evening was the liveliest of the season in the villa colony of Newport. Professor Alexander Agassiz was among those who entertained.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder have gone to Four Brook Farm, Tyringham.

Miss Eleanora Sears of Beacon street will leave Boston at an early date to visit Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt at Newport.

Nahant's fashionable church will have the Rev. Francis G. Peabody of Cambridge as its pulpit to-morrow. The Rev. Philip Rhinelander, dean of Cambridge, will conduct the services there on the following Sunday.

July 8 is the date set by many Bostonians for sailing from New York for Europe. Among them will be Mrs. George W. Coleman and her sister, Miss S. Willard Vinson. They are to sail on the Ivernia to be gone all until Fall. They are to visit London, Paris, Germany, Sweden, Russia, Austria and Switzerland.

Mrs. Wirt Dexter of Commonwealth avenue returned from Europe in time for class day at Harvard. She and her daughter, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, N. Y., will go to Wirt Summer place in Marion at an early date.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Gray Otis have returned to America after a number of years spent abroad. They arrived at Great Head in Winthrop this week.

In her pleasant Summer home in Swampscott Mrs. Henry Forbes gave a delightful luncheon to members of the Chromatic Club this week.

THE MYSTERY OF THE YELLOW ROOM

By GASTON LEROUX

Copyright, 1908, by Brstano.

In Which Frederic Larsan Explains How the Murderer Was Able to Get Out of the Yellow Room.

"THE stones of the lavatory have not been washed by Daddy Jacques for some time," he said; "that can be seen by the layer of dust that covers them. Now, notice here the marks of two large footprints and the black and they left where they have been.

"That ash is nothing else than the charcoal dust that covers the path along which you must pass through the forest in order to get directly from Epinay to the Glandier. You know there is a little village of charcoal burners in that place who make large quantities of charcoal.

"What the murderer did was to come here at midday, when there was nobody at the pavilion, and attempt his robbery."

"But what robbery? Where do you see any signs of robbery? What proves to you that a robbery has been committed?" we all cried at once.

"What put me on the track of it," continued the journalist.

"Was the attempted Monsieur de Marquet, still on his knees.

"Evidently," said Rouletabille.

And Monsieur de Marquet explained that there were on the dust of the garment marks of two footsteps, as well as the impression, freshly made, of a heavy rectangular parcel, the marks of the cord with which it had been fastened being easily distinguished.

"You have been here, then, Monsieur Rouletabille?" asked I had given orders to Daddy Jacques, who was left in charge of the pavilion, that no one was to enter."

"Don't scold Daddy Jacques. I came here with Monsieur Robert Darzac."

"Monsieur Robert Darzac—Professor Stangerson's friend!" exclaimed Monsieur de Marquet, disagreeably, casting a side glance at Monsieur Darzac, who remained perfectly silent.

"When I saw the mark of the parcel by the side of the footprints I had no doubt as to the robbery," replied Monsieur Rouletabille. "The thief had not brought a parcel with him; he had made one here in the lavatory with the stolen objects, no doubt; and he put it in this corner intentionally, so as to be able at the moment came for him to make his escape.

Motive for Hiding in the Room

"He had also placed his heavy boots beside the parcel, for, see, there are no marks of steps leading to the marks left by the boots, which were placed side by side. That accounts for the fact that the murderer left no trace of his steps when he fled from the yellow Room, nor any in the laboratory, nor in the vestibule.

"After entering the Yellow Room in his boots, he took them off, doubtless from troublesome, or because he wished to make as little noise as possible. The marks made by him in going through the vestibule and the laboratory were subsequently washed out by Daddy Jacques.

"Then, after the murder or other, taken off his boots, the murderer carried them in his hand and placed them by the side of the parcel, in the lavatory, and that time the robbery had been accomplished.

"The man then returned to the Yellow Room and slipped under the bed, where he knew he would be perfectly safe, on the floor and even on the mat, which he slightly removed from its place and creased. Fragments of straw also, removed from the mat, were found on the murderer's movements under the bed.

"You know the rest all about that," said Monsieur de Marquet.

"The robber had another motive for returning to his under shelter—he continued the astonished boy-journalist. "You might also, if you like, add that he was forced quickly on seeing, through the vestibule door, Professor Stangerson and Monsieur Stangerson about to enter the pavilion. It would have been much easier for him to have climbed up to the attic and hidden in the ceiling, with opportunity to get away, if his purpose had been only flight. No—he had to be in The Yellow Room."

Here the chief interviewed the boy reporter, who was even beginning to look rather frightened at

SHOE MEN TO RENEW FIGHT ON HIDE DUTY

Shoe manufacturers and representatives of the New England shoe trade, involving $200,000,000 of industry, will meet at the New England Shoe & Leather Association rooms, No. 166 Essex street, Boston, at 2 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon.

The call for the meeting, issued by President Charles C. Hoyt, shows that the shoemen will fight with renewed vigor for free hides. The call reads:

In view of the determination of the United States Senate, as expressed by its vote of June 22, to ignore the just demands of the great shoe and leather industry of the country and the welfare of the 80,000,000 consumers of boots and shoes, in the matter of the duty on hides, a public meeting of the shoe and leather and allied interests of this section will be held at the headquarters of the New England Shoe & Leather Association, 166 Essex street, Boston, on Wednesday, June 30, at 2 o'clock p. m.

MINSTRELS OF 1915 AT WONDERLAND

The "1915 Minstrels" at Wonderland open as a new feature next Monday—a brand new production to be presented by fourteen beautiful girl singers, dancers and blackface artists. The company has been gathered from Boston and New York and is of unusual artistic ability.

The management has other new park features in mind and preparations are being made for more stirring times at the park than ever during the season. All in peculiarity of the Summer parks about Boston that the big season only begins to earnest with the closing of the schools. Greater crowds than ever in the park's history are looked for through the months of July and August.

Next Monday and Tuesday the STANLEY AMERICA GRAND vaudeville will fill the Wonderland park bill in afternoon numbers, with tickets of free admission to the park and to the "1915 Minstrels" and one even dozen half-fare tickets to the principal attractions.

The Golden Graces, The Prophet and the Princess, Hell Hath No Fury, Ruthless, Velvet Coaster, Little Railway, Merry-Go-Round, Salmonella, Funny Picture Machine, Picture Show and Love's Journey are some of the shows. There will be a rush for STANLEY AMERICANS to-morrow morning and it would be wise to order of your newsdealer to-day.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS

LOCAL MARKET BARELY MOVES

STATE STREET, June 26.—Noon—The local market barely had steerage way this forenoon. It was dull and quiet, with very few orders. The street was deserted, as the weather and the market have driven people to the seashore or mountains.

Arbitrage brokers offered stocks at the opening and as a result Amalgamated yielded fractionally. The mining share list was generally steady, but entirely lacked animation. North Butte was quoted at 57½, American Zinc at 27⅛@28, Utah Consolidated at 42 and United States Smelting at 49⅝@49¾.

American Telephone yielded slightly on small orders and U. S. Steel eased off slightly, as did Union Pacific.

Local railroad shares continue steady with a very slack investment demand. The market showed a hardening tendency in closing dealings.

The Curb Market was also very quiet and brokers here found it more confined able out on the street. Davis Daly, Vulture and National showed a fair strength. Vulture made a new high at 8⅝. National Exploration lost a part of yesterday's advance and Bay State Gas was a trifle firmer.

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, June 26.—The return of James Stillman from Europe after a conference with H. H. Harriman and his failure to give a satisfactory explanation for appearing at such an unseasonable time of the year, gives further circumstantial evidence of some big financing for the Union Pacific. It is known that all the Harriman brokers have been buying Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, New York Central and Atchison privately and in large blocks for the past three months. All of these stocks have been held down by main force.

$ $ $

Now comes Stillman, and the Standard Oil interests are letting the public know that they believe the crops are safe. July 25 is the date on which all expect some announcement from Mr. Harriman in Europe. When the original news was exclusively published in this column several weeks ago that Harriman would do some gigantic financing for his system the official organ in Wall street expressed hilarious disbelief. The news bears the latter's cachet, and all are now printing their expectations of a big bond issue.

$ $ $

James Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, who arrived yesterday on the Lusitania, said:

"Business conditions abroad, I find financial and commercial affairs very encouraging and in a healthy condition, especially, bankers and investors are beginning to look with greater favor upon American securities and the legislative difficulties at present existing in those countries. Capitalists in London tends toward more money than why for investment. I think that in many European countries a tide of prosperity is starting, but not to such an extent as that which is in evidence in this country."

$ $ $

Reorganization plans for Third Avenue, providing for an assessment of $25 a share on the stock and an increase of the company's capitalization to the extent of $34,000,000, startled Wall Street. Third Avenue now has outstanding stock of $16,000,000, with bonds of $42,500,000. The reorganization proposes to issue $20,000,000 of stock in a new company and put $72,000,000 of bonds behind it. Assessments being levied, the proposed lines will be a bitter disappointment to those who believed they were going to get a square deal for once. Explanations are in order.

$ $ $

Interborough-Metropolitan stocks are strong, the preferred making a new high record to-day. Confidence in view of the remarkable reorganization plan for the Third Avenue Railroad, which looks to bring the advance in Interborough-Metropolitan stock, is the principal cause of profit. It is well understood that J. P. Morgan & Co. will advance the money for that part of the Third Avenue assessment that will fall upon the Interborough-Metropolitan when the Metropolitan Street Railway Company is reorganized.

$ $ $

James R. Keene was said to have been the principal buyer of Interborough-Metropolitan, but this story does not entirely agree with the one current yesterday, which was to the effect that the buying came directly from the Morgan interests. Certain it is Interborough-Metropolitan is a manipulative railroad than of the manipulative kind.

$ $ $

Reading has been advanced sharply because the professionals do not know what else to do with it. The list is pushed first in one direction and then in another with out reason. Western Union has advanced on the strength of control being purchased by the Telephone Trust, thus causing a quarrel between the Mackay companies, Western Union and American Telephone and Telegraph. This story has been officially denied so often that denials no longer carry any weight. The only reason on the schedule in this connection will be purchase of control of the telegraph companies by the Government. This report is always circulated every fourth year about the end of June.

$ $ $

A sharp advance in wheat is due to the bad harvest in Europe. The American crop is going to be bigger than last year, and the strength of the market is, therefore, a bull argument for stocks. The winter wheat crop promises to be above 700,000,000 bushels more than last year.

$ $ $

Known movements of money for the week indicate a cash gain by the banks of from $9,000,000. They actually gained $10,000,000 from the interior, although at this season of the year they should be losing money to the West. Such money conditions are unusual, and when added to all with $500,000,000 of Aldrich steel rail bank notes in reserve the banks are not ready for Harriman to act. Conservative bankers say that the danger is that they would not buy stocks just now, but they certainly would not sell any short.

$ $ $

There is considerable talk of the possibility of a flurry in money at the end of the month, due to the preparations of the banks to meet the July disbursements, but no confirmation of any heavy withdrawals has so far been traced, notwithstanding rumors of calling of loans.

$ $ $

By its income account for the first nine months of this year, the Southern Pacific had a surplus for that period of $2,785,000, equal to 4.84 per cent. on its $80,000,000 of preferred stock. For the year it will evidently earn 8 per cent on that class of stock, or perhaps $1,000,000 over.

$ $ $

Copper producers who have held all along that the recent dip in metal prices was merely the result of speculative forces at work and had no reference to underlying conditions, point to Saturday's advance as corroborating their views and forecast that the near future will see the metal back to 13⅜ cents or better.

The increase in the visible supply which markets has dominated the copper situation during the last few weeks, was primarily the cause for the improvement on this side, supported by the stand taken by the larger producers in refraining to be stampeded by the selling movement abroad and the consequent new heavy visible supplies. In this connection copper men point to the fact that the drop of many a boom in the metal the visible supply has been enormously large, and while it undoubtedly operates to keep prices down until the larger part of the visible stocks are taken up by consumption, it does not in itself constitute a valid argument for continued low prices.

WALL STREET STOCKS DROP

By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Stocks were dull but heavy in the early trading in Wall street to-day. Losses averaging a point were recorded throughout the list. Union Pacific, Reading, Northern Pacific and the copper shares were the heaviest sufferers.

Union Pacific preferred, declined three and five-eighths points to 190⅜. The reaction in this issue is just as sensational as its rise, and traders are of the opinion that its recent advance was purely manipulation which could easily be accomplished because Harriman and his personal friends control about 70 per cent. of the outstanding stock.

Western Maryland continued to decline under light sales. During the first half hour of trading it sold at the low price of 12. Insiders began liquidating their holdings when it sold at 22. An assessment on it is certain. The only uncertainty is how large it will be.

Reports from Paris that the listing of Steel common on the Bourse had been abandoned explained the heaviness of Steel common, which declined three-quarters of a point. The preferred was steady in the closing price of last night.

In London American shares were irregular. Larose was the feature of trading, selling on the New York Curb market and sold at a new high record of 8⅛. Nevada Consolidated was a fraction higher. Other silver shares and porphyry copper were steady.

CROSS AND HYLAND IN BIG BATTLE TO-DAY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—No fight that has taken place in San Francisco in the past five years has aroused more interest among fight fans than the Cross-Hyland battle to-day at Coffroth's Mission street arena.

To Cross it means a chance at the lightweight title if he wins, and if he loses it will be the end of his meteoric rise in the pugilistic world.

To Hyland it will mean another chance at Nelson, and this is what Dick is hankering for since he was defeated by the Dane. Coffroth has promised the winner a July date with the champion.

The men will weigh in at 133 pounds at 10 o'clock this morning, five hours before the time to enter the ring. Both men weighed pleased Cross. In his battles in New York he went to bed the night before a fight weighing 135 pounds and awoke in the morning at the lightweight limit.

Upon arriving here Cross said he could ask for nothing better on the weight question and as he has Tommy Loftus, his own trainer, with him, there is little doubt that the New Yorker will be in tip top condition for the battle.

Cross might have had a chance to box on the Coast long ago, had it not been for the matchmakers putting him up against much seasoned and experienced boxers as McFarland and Driscoll. Both men beat him, and Cross lost his following.

Before he lost to these two, Cross was the talk of the East and he packed house was assured whenever he fought.

From the time he clipped Battling Hurley on the chin, putting Jim away in the first round at the Roman Club, New York, Cross was in great demand. He bored Tommy Murphy a cissy six-round bout and gave Hyland as a semi-final bearing at the same distance. He knocked out Frankie Madden in five rounds after Madden had put Leach away in two rounds.

TEAMS RACE AT REVERE

Its an intercity conflict behind pace at the Revere track tonight when a Boston team meets one from the Clifton, N. J., track. Jimmy Morse will have a partner D. Connolly, to defend the honor of Boston, while Walter Anderson, the lame, and Fred Hill of Watertown, the two of the state of the New Jersey track will try to beat them.

The men will ride five-mile heats, two men to a heat. Then the two losers will contest, the winner to go in the final, which is fifteen miles distance.

In the first contest Morse will probably face Anderson, and the Bulkmas will have some trouble beating the Dane. It's a hard thing to pick a winner between Connolly and Hill. Hill has a host of followers who want to see him in his first race here as pace rider.

In addition to the intercity contest there will be a 10-mile motorcycle race between Hayes and Tom Connolly and a 10-mile open for amateurs, making in all 45 miles of racing for the night.

The standard two cylinder motorcycles will be used in both paced events.

LEAGUE PITCHERS ROUNDING TO FORM.

The pitchers in the two big leagues seem to be just getting down to business and showing what they really can do. For instance, in the American league there have been only three one hit games and seven two-hit games pitched up to Saturday. Joss, Lake and Coombs pitched the one-hit contests, while Powell has officiated in two of the two-hit games, with "Cy" Young, Foltz, Frank Smith, Joe Wood and Cheek doing the fighting in the others.

Camnitz and Overall are the only National league pitchers with one-hit games to their credit, and Mathewson, Rell, Fromme, Ewing, Beebe, Mattern and Ferguson are the ones off whom only two hits have been made.

KETCHEL BOUT WILL DRAW BIG

By TAD.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Coffroth's Colma arena will be enlarged to twice its size for the Ketchel-Papke battle which is scheduled for July 5.

The western promoter expects as big a crowd for that go as he had for the Corbett-Jeffries affair some years ago, at which the receipts ran to $66,000 or more. That was Coffroth's prize card. He advertised it well, Corbett advertised it well, and Jeff's presence made it a card that westerners will never forget. It was the second largest crowd that ever witnessed a fight in America. It was held in the old Mechanics' Pavilion, now down.

Coffroth's new arena will seat twice as many people as Mechanics' Pavilion did, and he expects to have ringside seats sold down $25.

Pete, the fourth meeting between the pair, is the talk of the country. When they met at Milwaukee first Ketchel won a half time decision. Later they met at Los Angeles, and Papke knocked his man out, giving him a fearful beating. Some months later Ketchel turned around and knocked Papke out, regaining his title.

Now the fourth match is looked upon as a wonder, especially as Papke has shown the sports that he is still there with the wallop. His win over Hugo Kelly showed them that he was more confident than ever, and carried just as dangerous a wallop.

It will surely be a grand battle, and from here it looks as though the fellow who sends in the first blight is likely to cop. Both being terrific punchers, it's a hard fight to gamble on.

"The Old Master" wires from Baltimore that there is no truth in the report which stated that he was ill of consumption. Joe writes the following:

No truth in report that I have consumption. At present am feeling fine and my health is of the best. Was sick when I boxed White in New York, but after resting up am as good as ever. Will be in New York in a few days and when you see me you can tell you the truth about my condition.

We are all glad to hear that Joe has side-stepped ill health and only hope that he may go along as he has done since he left us.

Leach Cross writes from the coast as follows:

San Rafael, Marion Co., Cal. June 14, 1909.

Dear Tad—Just wanted to let you know that I am in great form here among Italian fellows in the world. Talk about hospitality! Gee! I feel like a native already. Last night we saw one of the amateur shows the other side of Frisco, and I was surprised to see that I had that would-be-successor to Abe Hossrell, a kid named Hoover, beat. The Young Grappler away for half an hour in the third round for the lightweight championship of the coast, and I'm going to have him work with me for this fight. They kind of like my style of fighting when in the end of January in an advance sale to the give, and they tell me that they figure to beat Hyland in ten rounds.

Loftus and Sam say that I'm in great trim and feel fine. We are having great weather and the roads are swell. Do a little rowing and mountain climbing and box with all the boys around.

Bill Shannon and the bunch send their regards. I'll bring home the bacon sure. Yours, LEACH CROSS.

A SCHEME TO CUT OUT THE "SPITBALL"

Although the word of a player who has been released by a manager—when that word is condemnatory—should be taken with a grain of salt, a statement made by Pitcher Chapelle, who was recently released by Frank Bowerman, of the Doves, cannot be classed as such. It was to the effect that the former Giant catcher was not successful as a manager in Boston, because he could not "hold" his spitball pitchers. "He has never mastered the throwing of the wet pellet," said the pitcher.

If Chapelle's statement could only get to the ears of right baseball moguls, with all the force it deserves, and the national leaders would only study over it, what a world of good would be done baseball. The spitball is a bad invention. That's the best that can be said about it. The worst is that it should be abolished. All over the country the cry for its death to organized baseball is growing louder and louder. It has grown so loud, in fact, that it will attract the attention of the entire country before many days. "New year Day's" ushers as into a new season. Why? Because the spitball is unfair—to the batter, the catcher trying hard to stop it with his mitt and to the fielder behind the moistball artist, so says an expert.

Unfair to Batter.

It is unfair to the batter because it is an unequal position he finds himself in, when he faces the pitcher. There is no matches his skill at guessing with the pitcher. He cannot do anything; nor is he allowed to do what were possible, to attract a ball to his bat by any unnatural means. He is there, all things being equal, to try to beat the pitcher into allowing him a ball that he can hit. He has his brains, arms and but to help him, as his only aids. The pitcher has just as many natural agencies to help him. Why should he be allowed to use something that is neither a product of brains nor prowess, but an unnatural thing, namely, the spitball.

The spitball, the one thing that is hurting the American game of baseball, is not a natural development of baseball. It is "freaky." Its usefulness to a pitcher comes from the fact that it takes a sudden drop from lack of force just in front of the batter. That drop is caused by the absence of friction between the ball and the pitcher fingers when the ball is thrown by the twirler. That is what the spitball is.

Now let's see what are the bad effects of the "spitter" on the game in general and what is likely to lead to its abolishment some day.

Spitter Causes Errors.

In the first place it's bad on the batters. That lines the army of players against its use at once for one reason. In the second place you have four infielders on every team that will decry its use because many of the present day errors can be traced directly to the pitcher using the spitball. Why, even the spectators at times can see the saliva dry from the ball on its course to the batter. If the latter imagine to hit the sphere the ball is still wet, and is very difficult for the fielder to do anything with it in the way of fielding. Another set of players that will be against the use of the "freak" curve are the catchers. They'll be opposed to it because the jacks and bangs they receive from trying to catch are crippling them every day. The "Roger Bresnahan" armor can't make them immune. From a fielding standpoint the outfielders have not as much a "kick" as their infielder brethren, but the chasers are opposed to be hitters, and as such their objections will be raised. There ought to be something done to stop the use of the ball.

BRESNAHAN IS BUILDING A BALL TEAM FOR FUTURE

When another year rolls around the St. Louis management will be in better position to push its team to the front than it was this Spring.

Deals that are to be made for 1910 and trades which may be proposed will be effected to conform with the notion that Bresnahan has in mind as to what pattern he will employ on which to model his club.

This year he had to take St. Louis as he found it. There was some that was good, a lot that wasn't so good, and a little experimental chaff. Of course, he had to undergo the hardship of losing a lot of strength that he might become the manager of the team.

In other words, he had to pay a price for his own advancement in the baseball world. That was serious of itself, but with characteristic energy he started to work with the timber he had and tried to shape it to suit his needs.

With a team that is less strong than that of 1908, because of the loss of valuable pitchers and Murray, Bresnahan is making a far better showing with his outfit than McCloskey could when he had all the men with him.

"If I only had to see where we might be improved," said the St. Louis manager, "I saw that after I had the team a week, but I want to say one thing and that is that more than one of the players who are with me now have improved since we have begun to play ball this season. They are a willing lot, even if they do not have the reputation of being stars, and they are playing ball for me from the heart and much better than they played in the past.

Bresnahan's friends call attention to the fact that he has made more headway against Chicago this year in about a month of actual play than St. Louis made during all the season of 1908. Probably one reason for that is the ability of the man behind the bat to stop the Chicago players from stealing bases. When the "Cubs" are choked down in their base running they are not nearly so dangerous on the field.

Notes of the Doves' Game

The Doves wore crepe on their left arms in respect for the death of the late Colonel George Dovey.

Coffee made his first appearance on the local lot. While he didn't do anything wonderful, he played a good game in the field.

* * *

Poor base running and hard luck cost the Doves a pair of tallies in the opening inning.

* * *

Sweeney got to third base in the second by reason of a poor throw by Doolan and a sacrifice, but he was left stranded there, as neither Coffee or Graham could get anything past Leidy.

* * *

Lindaman replaced Ferguson at the start of the seventh inning.

* * *

Jacklitsch was in the game all the time. He made three hits out of three trials and scored three runs.

* * *

Sweeney and Graham fielded Doolan's bunt in the fourth, running into each other and letting Doolan get to first unmolested.

* * *

McQuillen is certainly there as a sacrifice hitter. He made three candies on his first three times at bat, one of these on the third strike.

* * *

Rigler kicked in with the usual amount of bum decisions. However, they were so much better than those which he handed out when last he worked in Boston that the fans didn't pan him much.

* * *

Harry Pulliam, president of the National League, viewed the game from the stand. Wonder how he liked the work of Messrs. Rigler and Truby?

* * *

Becker objected to Rigler's decision on a strike in the third, while he was making a few choice remarks to his niles McQuillen slipped one over which Rigler labeled a strike.

FIGHTER HERE FOR BIG BOUT

Tommy Sullivan, the pride of Lawrence, will arrive home to-day to finish his training. A big reception is planned for him on his arrival by his staunch admirer, Percy Libbey, who has piloted him through many hard tasks. His comes from Philadelphia to meet Joe Thomas in their bout at the Armory A. A. Tuesday night, a match he has been looking for even since Thomas slipped the deep fisher on to his jaw at Chelsea. Sullivan has come along fast since that battle and is to-day a recognized contender in Philadelphia, as a likely contender for the middleweight title. If Sullivan defeats Thomas he intends to go right after the winner of the Papke-Ketchel match which is to be decided in Philadelphia next month.

Sullivan has been in preliminaries to what the appetites of the members, a fast and interesting session is sure to materialize.

BASEBALL NEWS AND NOTES

The scouts of half a dozen major league teams have been watching Casey, a kid pitcher with the Little Rock team in the Southern League. He has all the earmarks of a world beater—according to the scouts in the field.

* * *

Captain Sullivan of the University of Michigan team certainly likes the strenuous life. When his baseball duties were over he made an ascent in the Southern Michigan League.

* * *

Bert Gregg, the Chicago semi-pro pitcher, who was with the Washington American League team last year, is making a big hit with the Omaha team of the Western League.

* * *

The Detroit critics claim that Melntyre is running a pitcher's duty home these days. They hold that McIntyre's ankle, broken two years ago, is weakening.

"Duke" Farrell believes that his arm is coming back, and that within a week he has been flinging the ball overhand. He declares that of the future stars of baseball there are a few players that look as good at a comparatively old age. He is about twenty years of age and hails from Tennessee.

"Bull" Perrine, umpire in the American League, is able to take care of himself in the slugging line, and it is said can put up a fine article of self-defence, and it is said can put up a fine article of self-defence, and it is said can prove by exhibition that he is entitled to a place in the fighter earning a livelihood in the ring.

"Jack" Sheridan says that the fault with some umpires is that they give their decisions too quickly.

Now staying in Boston for a short effort, outfielder "Ogling Dave" Hughes, Manchester, Stallings is reported to have nervous prostration in Detroit.

After losing fourteen out of fifteen games on the road, Brooklyn came home and actually won two out of three from the Giants. Then they went back. It is reported that half the population of that city has been prostrated with grief. Let it again.

LANGFORD BACK; BARS NO MAN EXCEPT JEFF

Sam Langford, Boston's "Tar Baby," is back on his native heath, with large bundles of laurels and an almost equal bundle of money, both gained during the recent invasion of Europe.

He brings with him the undisputed title of champion of England, gained by his victory over Ira Hague in London, and while the National Sporting Club invested him with the title of champion of the world, the colored fighter prefers to fight for this honor rather than attempt to claim it.

He was accorded an enthusiastic reception by local admirers on his arrival, and to answer to a query as to his plans, will be expected to take a long rest, but would fight any man in the world, with the exception of Jeffries, if such a match could be arranged.

He has great admiration for Jeffries as a fighter, and is satisfied that Johnson would stand no chance in the ring with the big Californian.

With Langford came Jimmy Walsh, the dapper little boxer and kingpin of the 110-pounders; Eddie Kaplin and Joe Woods.

While on the other side of the pond the Boston boys made a trip over to Paris, and while they had an offer to box there the last of the present month they did not care to linger that long. They did, however, give an exhibition in private for the American colonists in the French metropolis.

Even the sans boxing is catching on in good style in France, and that before many months this country will be turning out some of the best of them. He also added that Joe Woodman would have the films of the moving pictures of the Langford-Hague and Walsh-Stanley bouts in a few weeks, and that they are the finest ever taken of a fight.

JOHNSON BOXES ROSS NEXT WEEK

PITTSBURG, June 26.—Champion Jack Johnson will be in Pittsburg next Monday to prepare for his six-round bout with Tony Ross in Duquesne Garden on Wednesday evening.

Frank Sutton, a local fight promoter, has prevailed upon the dusky fighter to reconsider his determination not to come here. Sutton received a telegram from Johnson last night which read: "Will arrive in Pittsburg Monday. All O. K."

Johnson will be guaranteed $2,000 for his bout here.

MIKE GRADY WANTS TO FIGHT SOME ONE

Results of Boxing Bouts

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—Nathan Ehrlich and Tommy O'Toole, territorial featherweight rivals in Philadelphia, met on the windup of the Nonpareil Club. Ehrlich narrowly escaped a knockout. It was only by clinching and hugging, for which he was repeatedly warned, that he was able to be on his feet when the final bell rang. O'Toole completely outclassed his young but ambitious rival, landing hard and often with both lefts and rights, but was not able to connect with a finishing punch.

* * *

PITTSBURG, June 26.—Frank Klaus, the Pittsburger, was certainly deceived if he ever had any idea he was a match for Jimmy Kelly, the Chicago fighter, for after six rounds the middleweight championship to which he aspired vanished like a rainbow. Kelly simply made a monkey of Klaus. The Pittsburg boy really did look like something of a fighter as he stepped into the ring and displayed some little talent as a sparrer, but before the first round was ended he showed that he was ready to quit.

* * *

MEMPHIS, June 26.—Kid Farmer of Peoria, Ill., found a game opponent matched with him at the Utopia A. C., competing in the Phoenix arena, when Matty McFadden of Peoria managed to stay through seven rounds of their eight-round schedule. McFadden's seconds threw up the sponge in the third round, but the fighter couldn't stand it and wobbled through the remaining rounds until the referee stopped the contest.

* * *

NEW YORK, June 26.—Johnny Dohan outpointed Marty Rowan in a 10-round bout at the Dry Dock A. C. The bout was fast throughout, Dohan earned the decision because of his aggressiveness.

* * *

LIMA, O., June 26.—Kid Moore and Clayton Yaeger met in what was to be a 10-round contest. Up to the fourth round the event was uninteresting. A blow to the plexus in the fourth knocked out Moore. Attendance about 800.

BOXING BITS OF NEWS

"Bill" McCarney writes that "Young" Erne beats Lew Powell twenty rounds in San Francisco on June 25. Coast fans are due to see in Erne one of the fastest and cleverest men in the ring.

Joe Humphrey has received a letter from George Silver of Chicago to the effect that Terry McGovern's belt will be defended once by Jimmy Coffroth, who Silver says, only borrowed it to advertise the Sol-Attell battle.

* * *

Abe Attell is ready to back his brother, Monte, against any bantamweight in the East for $1,000, to which he will cover the money of one of the managers wants the bet. Abe thinks Monte will hold the bantamweight championship as long as he had the featherweight title.

* * *

Young Corbett and Johnny Frazee are practically matched to meet before Coffroth's club on July 17. Frazee was to have met Owen Moran at Colma Friday night, but Manager Baird wanted too much money, and the match was off. Corbett has started training, and all other sporting writers are talking about his remarks, but he says he'll do the talking when he gets in the ring.

* * *

Jim Coffroth is figuring on such a large crowd on the Labor Day show at Kelrebel that for the fourth time that he is having his arena stretched out to accommodate three thousand more persons. Jim can't tell what he is going to do with a string of offices and crews of clerks and stenographers that make one of our big insurance companies look like a branch.

Mitchell Gilligan, of No. 342 Broadway, Newburgh, N. Y., is looking for a boy that can and wants to get in touch with some local talent. Should the postal boom Gilligan's way he can count postage.

Billy Doyle is just as light to-day as he was when he first started boxing and can do 124 with ease. Any comer will make 126 for four hours before the battle, which will give the champion are or six pounds to the good.

* * *

Fred Sidney, the Boston colored featherweight, would be a 20 round draw with boxer named Cockell in Brighton last week. Sidney has not watches in Dublin and Belfast and then expects to go to Paris.

* * *

It's a pretty safe bet Jack Johnson won't fail to keep his engagement in Tony Ross at Pittsburg on June 30. Bill Pierce won't stand for any double cross from Johnson after he has arranged the bout.

GOLF GOSSIP NEWS OF THE LINKS

Karl E. Mosser of Brae Burn, who started in the Wilmington invitation tourney was a good second to the winner of the gold medal offered for low score in the qualifying round. He had 168 for a total on the 36 holes, and this was three strokes more than Robert Weir of the home club required.

Templeton Briggs won't be in very good shape to play at New Haven next Tuesday, as the star first sacker of the Crimson nine, if his friends don't stop slapping him on the back for that wonderful catch he made in the first game of the interclass Yale series. Briggs as a member of the Lexington Golf Club and not well known as a crack golfer, comes in for a warm reception wherever he goes nowadays, for he has a way of hitting the ball a long distance, if college and out of form and all show their appreciation of his grand-stand play that saved the day by the most approved method.

The Denver Country Club was formally presented with the Tom Morris Memorial trophy Thursday, and will hold it until the annual competition next year on June 15th. Fifty-five clubs competed for this trophy with eight men representing each club. The play was against the par of 72 for the course, and was decided by actual measurements.

If muscle was to count greatly in golf the late champion next year would be H. B. Berry of Meadow Brook. He has muscles, chest, legs, and in fact almost every part of his anatomy show remarkable development in fact he is built a rock all over. Unfortunately for Berry science counts more than strength, and he proves an average game like nine out of every ten golfers.

NINE RACING CREWS MEET ON THE RIVER

HARVARD TRAINING QUARTERS, RED TOP, Ct., June 26.—It seldom happens that all the crews of Harvard and Yale meet at one time on the river, but this extraordinary thing happened yesterday, and presented a unique and imposing spectacle.

An ordinary eye witness, on seeing nine crews clustered within a half mile of each other, would have said that a national regatta was taking place, instead of just the Crimson and Blue crews out for practice.

The river was literally covered with shells, there being four eights and five four-oars. Each boat had a good chance to see its rival in action, and comments and comparison were numerous on both sides.

The Harvard University eight and the freshman eight paddled down to the navy yard and back in about four stretches, rowing fast at all times. The work was of light order, and very creditable to the single men of their individual fault. Both eights rowed very well, and they are both developing speed. The 'Varsity seems to be improving most of the two, because their finish is longer and cleaner. The freshmen are inclined to wash out at the finish, but are a fast combination even at that.

The two 'Varsity four-oars tried a couple of spurting starts together, and for the first time this year the first 'Varsity four showed considerable of Nevelling speed. They easily beat the second in both their starts, although they rowed two points lower. Sargent seems to have caught on at last, and is getting the stroke higher, which is one of the most essential things in a four.

The freshman four paddled over the last half mile of the course in preparation for their race next Wednesday. They were alone, and no time was taken.

The Nation's Drink as It Ought to Be

Made of herbs and fruits and flowers

BE careful about your drinks. Be careful about the water you drink. Lots of times you are healthily thirsty for something more than water. You need it. Your system is crying out for it. When you want something more than water, be careful what that something is!

You want an appetizing drink. You want a cooling, soothing drink. You want a bracing drink. But you want neither false stimulants nor drugs.

You want a drink that will sustain your animal vitality and your mental vitality on the most fatiguing or the hottest day—and that will not let you down with a dull thump an hour or two after you drink it.

What one needs on any kind of a day is a re-vitalizing drink that has no stimulant to set the heart and brain going faster, and no drug or narcotic, like caffeine, to make the heart go slower.

Hires works on the stomach and not on the heart. It soothes and cools the whole system and noticeably increases your vitality.

As a beverage, it slakes the thirst without making you thirsty again.

It is the ideal drink for the shopper—for the business man—for the child.

It hasn't the suggestion of a drug in it. It has herbs and fruits and flowers—in a scientific combination that makes one of the best possible digestives.

Hires is genuinely good for your health. There are many kinds of so-called "rootbeer," made in many different and indifferent ways.

It is essential to call for Hires by name.

DISASTERS THAT WENT ASTRAY

Madame Thebes Predicted Ruin of America: Troubles That Were to Shake the World in 1908

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

MANY people were made nervous and apprehensive in the early part of 1908 by the predictions of Madame Thebes of Paris concerning the disasters coming to America. It is amusing to read over these prophecies now that a year and a half have passed away. Here are a few of them:

"The year of 1908 will be full of troubles. Mercury is the dominating planet. The struggle of races and classes will be especially severe.

"The year 1908 will be a most fateful and disastrous one for the United States of America. Poor America! She has seen her best days and they will never come back any more. I see nothing but anarchy, ruin and bloody deluge for her. On the other hand, South America will henceforth enjoy a bright and magnificent future.

"November will see the inevitable reckoning between Japan and the United States. I could speak with more certainty on this subject if I had examined some Japanese hands.

"It will be a year in which financiers and not politicians will be the leading figures in public life. The financiers will go on increasing in importance, until the outbreak of the universal war, which is rapidly approaching, but will not occur before the end of 1908.

"There will be an apparent improvement of the financial situation in the Spring, but a disturbance of a most sensational character will occur later.

"The year will be remarkable for the predominating role women will play in the world's affairs, and the diminishing importance of man. In Paris it will be a year of remarkable scandals, in one of which an American woman, daughter of one of the famous 'pork kings' of the United States, will play the leading role.

"In February the world will be astonished by an elopement in a royal family.

"Paris will be shocked in April by the suicide of two women involved in a remarkable adventure. One of them is an American woman, well known in French aristocratic society.

"Nineteen hundred and eight will see the beginning of the fall of Germany. The imposing facade which represents the German Empire is beginning to split and crumble away. Misfortune and death will work havoc in the Imperial family of Germany. The life of the Emperor will be in grave danger before the Summer is past. Indeed, I do not believe he will live through the year.

"The Autumn of 1908 will be a particularly hazardous and fateful one for the navies of Europe, America and the extreme East. I have observed signs which foretell a general conflict in far Eastern waters.

"There will be religious conflicts, wars and schisms throughout the world. A bitter conflict will break out between the Catholic Church and the government of Italy, which will reach its climax in October. A mob will threaten the life of His Holiness the Pope in the Vatican, and there will be an American woman, well known in French aristocratic society, a prince of the Italian royal family, whose life will then be revealed as one of shameless wickedness.

"The hordes of Islam will rise in savage warfare and strive to exterminate all Christians within their reach."

The last clause of this prophecy is the only one which came true; and this is almost perpetually taking place in some part of the earth and is a safe prediction to make.

Madame Thebes really did predict an earthquake on the coast of America—which would cause appalling disaster—just before the San Francisco calamity; but while she may be an occasional seer, she is evidently not capable of a "continuance performance."

In truth, there are no prophets who are to be relied upon at all times. The great Creative Power placed certain barriers between man and the future, and only very old souls, who have passed through innumerable incarnations are enabled to see beyond this barrier, and they only by flashes.

Here is a prediction made also for 1908, by Professor Zadkiel, England's leading prophet:

"The solar eclipse on June 28, 1908, falling near the place of the moon at the time of President Roosevelt's birth, is ominous of trouble, both for him and for the nation. The difficulty in carrying out his policies will increase, and will culminate between July 20 and July 30. At that time the President will have to contend with the most determined opposition from a large and influential body of citizens, and the country will find itself in the throes of a controversy more bitter than it has known since the days before the Civil War.

"Between July 8 and July 15 serious earthquakes may be expected in Florida, Georgia, Turkey and Greece.

"In Southern Mexico, as a result of the eclipse, the crater of a volcano long supposed to be extinct will pour forth death and destruction for miles around. In Canada a gigantic meteor will come rushing out of the heaven and bury itself in the earth, to the consternation of the peoples of two populous towns. Along the Southern Atlantic coast a huge sea serpent will be seen.

"The position of the stars during February is not reassuring, either as to the weather or the public welfare. Strikes and rioting in Germany, Austria and Italy will vie with a deadly epidemic in England in alarming Europe, while in the United States several railroad disasters in New England, New York and Illinois, and fires in several southern and far western cities will cause a heavy loss of life and property.

"But the most alarming portent in the horoscope of February is that of terrific storms at sea, doing great damage to shipping everywhere.

The troubles foreseen by Professor Zadkiel are very spectacular, and would have afforded great entertainment to the world.

The "sea serpent" must have made other engagements; but he should have sent a wireless to Professor Zadkiel when he found that he could not appear as scheduled on our coasts.

The professional prophet is a good deal of a "nature fakir," and it is unwise to depend upon him.

Let us order our lives on the principles which survive disaster and go along as if we were to live forever here and now, among our fellow-men.

We are a part of Nature—the highest expression of it. We will live forever and forever in varying forms.

The thing obligatory with us is to live in EACH LIFE as nearly right as possible, and to obtain and give as much happiness as possible.

The man who spent beautiful hours during the year 1906 worrying over troubles and disasters which never came, HINNIES. He threw away opportunities for enjoyment, and wasted his vitality in fear and worry.

Live according to your highest ideal TODAY; when to-morrow comes live again according to your ideal; for it will be then "to-day"; and having done your part to the best of your ability leave the rest with the Creator.

The Manicure Lady

She Meets Up With a Chinese Gent Who Was Funny

"YESTERDAY, George, was the first time that I ever saw a Chinaman come in to have his nails did. When he first sat down I felt kind of sorry to think that he was a ignorant foreigner, because he was very young and good looking and had on a swell suit of clothes. But the way it turned out I didn't have no call to pity him, let me tell you.

"When I seen him giving me the old slant eye and heard him calling me step-daughter of the moon's uncle, I started in with a return.

"'Have you been long in Boston?' I asks him. 'I was born near here,' he replies, in good English. 'So was I,' says I to the chink. 'I was born over in Chelsea.' 'Daughter of the Stars,' says he, 'I was born just next door to you in San Francisco. It is a small world, after all, isn't it, Sister of the Sun?'

And the only kind of English the Chinese thoroughly understand is the kind accentuated with a "good right."

The Oriental Boy Was Funny

"Somehow I didn't feel very fresh, George, after I had joked with this funny little chap for a few minutes. You know that long years of association with the wins gonnta around here has got me to the point where I am a good kidder, but it seems that this Oriental boy beat me to everything funny that I tried to start. 'Have you many sisters, my friend?' I asked him. 'Many, indeed,' he says. 'They are very fair and sweet to gaze on, like you. They love me well. Would that you might also be a sister of mine and love me well.'

"I can't begin to tell you all the smooth things he pulled while I was working on his extra long nails, but you can take one thing for granted, George, and that is this: Anybody who tries to kid a Chinaman is kidding himself."

"I don't care much for 'em," said the Head Barber. "Most of 'em either doesn't shave at all or else shave at home. They ain't no good to us."

"They Are Great Stallers"

"That part of it may be all right," said the Manicure Lady, "but I learned something to-day. I learned that the old gent was right, my father, I mean, when he said that the Chinese people had many a good laugh at our teachers. You can't make a Baptist out of a Chinaman any more than you can make a song-writer out of a Shakespeare.

"Just last week father caught a chink servant that lives in the flat under me—caught him in the act of stealing our milk and rolls off the dumb waiter. The old gent rushed down the stairs and into the flat and grabbed the chink, and he asks the Chink what he means by stealing our milk and rolls.

"'I don't understand English,' says the chink. 'Do you know that I have a good notion to slam one over your yellow jaw?' asks the old gent. 'I don't understand English,' says the Chinaman.

"Then father grabbed the rolls and milk and cuffed the heathen one good wallop on the map, putting him down and out. That's the only kind of English they really understand, George. They ain't no good, but they are sure wise little weasels."

"A Good Pair to Draw To"—By Nell Brinkley

Where, in the game of Life, can a man find a pair better than Cupid and a pretty girl.

WHEN you tuck your two spare knees, oh Bachelor-man, under the table at the game of Life, where even Nature sometimes has a card up her sleeve and hardly anybody around the board is on the level—why, Love and a girl are a good pair to draw to!

You play with Death at your right hand, and around the board are the splendid woman Nature, the sly man Chance, the spread-winged, grave Charity, the golden boy Youth—who plays fair early in the game and then changes partners and cheats you the rest of it—the glorious woman Beauty, the eagle-nosed man War, and all the red devils of Greed and Jealousy and Cruelty, and besides—the legions and hosts of fellowmen and women, good and bad, puzzles to their Maker even. And Love and a Woman are a good pair to draw to—not a safe and a sure thing, I know, but most wondrous exciting, and when the woman is sweet and wholesome and warm-hearted and a good pal and loves you a lot, and you hold your end up, and Love stays awake, a most gorgeous rake-in!

The greatest play you ever made in the game, for they're headed straight for Arcady, and you're goin' along! NELL BRINKLEY.

Percival's Thoughts

Penelope Never Could Have Guessed Them—No. Never!

By KENNETT HARRIS

"A PENNY for your thoughts, darling," offered Penelope.

"What made you suppose I was thinking, sweetness?" inquired Percival, with an embarrassed smile.

"You were so quiet," explained the young woman.

"It's a way I have at times," Percival said. "I've been known to fall into a fit of silence and not come out of it for a minute or two at a stretch. It worries my friends very much; but don't you care; the doctors think I'll outgrow it."

"What were you thinking about, silly boy?" asked Penelope.

"It really doesn't follow that I was thinking at all, sweetheart," replied Percival. "My mind sometimes becomes a perfect blank even when I've stopped talking, and you shouldn't make reckless bids. Take care of your pennies. Enough of them will makes a hundred dollars. If I had a hundred dollars do you know what I would do?"

"No. What would you do with it?"

"I guess I'll have to come down a little. What do people do with hundred-dollar bills, I wonder? What would you buy if you had one, honey-bird—a hat?"

"You haven't told me what you were thinking about yet," suggested Penelope.

"That's so," admitted Percival. "We got on to financial topics and it went clear out of my head. I find I'm very often puzzled to know from something I particularly want to keep in mind.

"I'll have an consult a specialist one of these days. Perhaps that would be the best thing for me to do with a hundred old century note," he added, brightening. "Still, think of the fun we could have for that much money, girlie! Or, would you sooner have diamonds?"

"I like all the diamonds I want," answered Penelope, raising her left hand to her lips.

"For the present," Percival suggested.

"Well, perhaps, some day, when our ship has come in and we are very, very rich indeed, I may let you buy me some more, dear."

"Why wait?" urged Percival. "Why put it off till then, when for the small sum of one dollar down and one dollar per week thereafter the rarest gems of the mine are yours. Have a firm, honey-bird. No? A rope of pearls then? Well, if you won't, you won't, and there's no use trying to make you. We'll wait, then. But you just remember that I'm going to insist on a tiara the instant that we become very, very wealthy. We'll get the tiara before we engage the butler even.

"I don't care whether we ever have a butler in the house or not," said Penelope. "What were you thinking of when you were so quiet a while ago?"

"When was that?" asked Percival, knitting his brows.

Penelope pouted and slapped the back of his hand with considerable force. "You know," she said. "I believe you were thinking about something horrid. I don't think you ought to have any secrets from me."

"I haven't," said Percival. "Why should I have? I'd tell you anything I think a man ought to tell the girl he's engaged to, anything—anything she's at all likely to believe."

"Percival!"

"Of course, I didn't really mean that," Percival hastened to assure her. "It's just my little joke. I know that I wouldn't tell you what wasn't strictly and absolutely so. There are people that I would just as soon lie to as not, if it was unavoidable and expedient. But I wouldn't, give it to you any way but straight."

"Was it about some other girl?" asked Penelope, with forced calmness.

"Good gracious, no!" exclaimed Percival. "Honey, I never think of other girls. Didn't you know that? I don't notice them even."

"Are you quite sure that you are telling the truth?" asked Penelope.

"The surest thing you know," replied Percival.

"Then, what was it?"

"Penelope," said Percival, seriously, "I hate to tell you, but I see that I've got to. I overslept a little this morning and dressed in some haste, attaching to a part of my costume a pair of untrustworthy suspenders that I had determined to throw away. As a run up has stepped—"

"Percival," interrupted Penelope, blushing, "whatever you were thinking about I know it was all right and very lovely and sweet of you and I don't want to force you to tell me—unless, dear, there's anything I can do with a needle and thread."

The little things a woman can do with a needle and thread often relieve a man's embarrassment.

We Depend On Vegetables For Our Life

THE distinction generally drawn between animal and vegetable food is apt to blind us to the fact that plants are, at bottom, the source of all nutriment, and that if they were to cease to grow mankind would starve. Says a writer in the London Lancet:

"The modern chemist points proudly to his synthetic triumphs, but with all his skill and knowledge he has not yet succeeded in preparing in practical quantities for his fellowmen a foodstuff from its elements. The synthetic processes of the plant was so far inimitable, and the plant is after all both the direct and indirect food of the animal.

"The relations between plants and animals form a beautiful dispensation, and for the vegetable kingdom man should hold a deep reverence and do his best to extend and promote its faithful offices. Whatever his views are, he owes the vegetable world more than one debt. He is at the mercy of the vegetable for his food, whether it be animal or vegetable, and he may be at the mercy of the vegetable for a supply of oxygen, without which vital processes of his organism could not be sustained.

"In this line of reasoning animal life would be extinguished if vegetable life ceased and vegetable life would fail if animal products were not available for its sustenance.

"Therefore, a horrible struggle for existence between plants and animals might ensue if for any considerable period the sun was shut out from the world, for then this agreeable interchange of mutually advantageous exhalation would cease and with it all life.

Hot Weather Hints for the Working Girl

By EDITH LAWRENCE

THIS is the season of the year when the girl who works and the girl of fashion alike try to solve the problem of how to keep cool.

Aside from the matter of dress, the greatest secret in the solution of this problem is to keep calm, both in mind and body. Avoid all unnecessary walking or moving around, and at the same time keep your nerves under control.

The girl who works should take a bath in tepid water upon arising. After doing this for a few days, she will find that the temperature of the water can be made much cooler.

Wear Practical Clothing

After a light breakfast the next thing to do is to don practical clothing. The girl who works should always have on hand two inexpensive Summer dresses which she can alternate.

The popular dark check ginghams which are in vogue at the present time make dainty gowns for work and do not soil easily. A blue muslin dress also is a valuable asset to the wardrobe of any girl.

The Dutch collar, besides being the proper style, is cool and comfortable, and with a few of these collars the dresses can be made to look new and charming daily. Not only are they neat and cool looking, but the laundry expense is cut to one-half in this way.

Peek-a-Boo Waists Soil

The white peek-a-boo waists are cool, but soil very easily. Better avoid them.

A light lunch can be taken at noon, such as milk and crackers, or many of the little specialty hot weather lunches that are to be had at the restaurants at the present time. A light supper should be the rule. The less a person eats in hot weather, the cooler the atmosphere will seem.

Before retiring one should take a sponge bath in equal parts of alcohol and cold water, which invigorates the entire system, and prepares for a good night's rest.

At the Rate of a Smile a Minute

A MEMBER entered a well-known club at a comparatively early hour.

"Oh, waiter," said he, "did you find a twenty-dollar bill on the writing table last night? I wrote a letter intending to enclose it, and I find this morning that I did not enclose it, so I must have left it on the writing table."

"Yes, sir," replied the waiter, with grave importance. "I did find it, and here it is. And it's well for you, sir, as none of the members had been in before I saw it!"

"WHAT are you writing, Hawley?"

"A story. I'm going in for fiction."

"Really! For a magazine?"

"No; for my tailor. He wants his money, and I'm telling him I'll send a check next week."

SHE—Some persons claim that they cannot look from a height without wishing to cast themselves down. Did you ever have that feeling, Mr. Yearnes?

He—Once.

She—Indeed! Where were you?

He—I was on an omnibus and I saw you in the street.

* * *

SHE—I met a delightfully polite man today.

He—Where was that?

She—In the train. I must have been carrying my umbrella carelessly, for he bumped his eye into it. And I said: "Pardon me," and he said, "Don't mention it—I have another eye left."

A cup of our coffee, smacking of quality in every drop, may cost you one-eighth of a cent more than the ordinary kind.

Education: The First Duty of Government

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

We wish to discuss with our readers in this and in future editions of this newspaper the great and serious question of education.

It is a question as broad as the ocean, and as deep. It is a question so vast that organized discussion of it seems hopeless.

The greatest minds of the world have devoted their powers to the intricate question of developing the human brain, and the problem has been scarcely touched.

The greatest works on education in the history of the world are undoubtedly Plato's "Republic," Spencer's "Education" and Rousseau's "Emile." The last is the greatest of all. It should be read by every father and mother and by every earnest citizen.

Other works that may be earnestly recommended are Aristotle's "Politics," Pestalozzi's "How Gertrude Teaches Her Children" and Froebel's "Education of Man."

To Rousseau undoubtedly belongs the high honor of having thought and written most powerfully, most originally and most practically on the greatest of problems. His brain is the cornerstone of the structure of intelligent educational methods.

He foreshadowed in his "Emile" Fourier's splendid principle of "attractive industry."

THE PROGRESS OF HUMANITY DEPENDS UPON THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE HUMAN BRAIN THROUGH EDUCATION.

The intricate processes of thinking separate mankind from other members of the animal creation.

Man is far from the animal in proportion as his brain is cultivated. Even the animals themselves rank in their kingdom in proportion to their brain activity.

William T. Harris said truly: "If man had let himself alone he would have remained the monkey that he was. Not only this, but if the monkey had let himself alone he would have remained a lemur, or a bat, or a bear, or some other creature that now offers only a faint suggestion of what the ape has become."

The human race has barely begun the systematic study of the problem of application, and systematic application, of the truths discovered and agreed upon. In proportion to our stature and possibilities we are hideous ignoramuses compared with the ant in the garden path.

The education of children is regulated not by their brain formation and possible development, but by the wealth of their parents, the parsimony of municipalities, the baleful influences of tradition and the colossally stupid idea that thorough brain cultivation is in some way antagonistic to material success.

The greatness of a nation depends upon the average mental power of the nation's citizens, and mental power depends absolutely upon education.

Education is important to the individual because it means development of the brain, development of capacity for production and increased chances of success.

Education is important to the state because it means not only COMPETENT citizens, but MORAL citizens.

The animal in us yields to the influences of education. Knowledge and brutality are enemies. They do not dwell together.

The most important institutions in this country are the public schools—the gymnasiums of human brains. The most important citizens of the nation are the teachers.

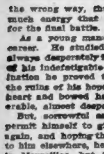
The greatest criminals are the employers of child labor, because they deny education, cut down in childhood the citizen's chance of progress and success.

Work and vote for more and better public schools.

Success After Failure

Emile Zola

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory



ZOLA—Great as he was, Zola's finest contribution to the world was his splendid courage.

If ever a man had to endure, to work and to will, that man was Emile Zola.

In the first place, he made the too common mistake of starting out along the wrong way, thus spending fruitlessly much energy that should have been kept for the final battle.

As a young man Zola chose a scientific career. He studied hard—for Zola was always desperately in earnest—but, in spite of his indefatigable industry, at the examination he proved to be a failure. And the ruins of his hopes he stood with broken heart and bowed head, poor, shabby, miserable, almost desperate.

But, sorrowful as he was, he did not permit himself to give up. He would try again, and hoping that fate might be kinder to him elsewhere, he stood for examination in Marseilles, but in that city he fared worse than in Paris.

With two such stunning defeats, coming in such quick succession, most young men would have quit in despair, but Zola did not quit.

His condition was a forlorn one. In the great gay capital he moved about like a tramp and a beggar. Day after day he went hungry, and night after night he rested where he could.

Through the kindness of a personal friend he was enabled to obtain a clerkship at the Docks Napoleon at the munificent salary of two francs a day. At this time Zola was twenty-one years old, and out of his forty cents a day he had to take care of himself and make contributions to the necessities of his mother.

After several months at the docks, he threw up the job, rushed, half dazed, out into the streets of the great city, and for quite a time led the life of a veritable bohemian.

At last he found himself on the brink of actual starvation.

Another friend came to the rescue, with the result that he obtained a position in the Bureau du Matriel at two shillings and sixpence per day. The attempt to live and take care of his mother on this pittance was a mockery, and Zola turned journalist.

All the world knows the rest of the story—how that pen clothed away in those desperation for years before it struck off the stuff that made France and the world pause, and think, and applaud.

It was not until the year 1875, when Zola was between thirty-five and forty years old that Fame began to look upon him with a smiling face. A little later the smiles began to come thick and fast, and upon the man of so many failures and hardships, griefs and sorrows the laurel wreaths fell faster than he could gather them up.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By William F. Kirk

WEN I calm hoam from skool last nite I told Ma & Pa that I had to rite a essay about Carving a Career. It was a very hard subjeck, so I asked Pa to help me.

I will be very glad to help you, Bobbie, sed Pa, but it is a subjeck that requires a grate deel of thought, so you better wait a day or two (2) & I will make a essay for you that will cop the first prize. In the meantime, if you have any lessons to lern, I will help you with them.

I have only got one (1) lesson, I told Pa. I have got to lern my geometry lesson. Geometry, sed Pa, what in the world are they doing down at yure skool, trying to teech a boy as young as you geometry, I dount know what they are doing, I told Pa, but jest the mim I have got to lern this lesson.

I am a little rusty on geometry, sed Pa. You mean that you dount know anything about it, sed Ma. Let me help Bobbie. You, sed Pa. Why, womma, sed Pa, you have no rite to try and instruck our littel sch in the misteries of the grate art of geometry. Leeve him to me, sed Pa. Now, Bobbie, sed Pa, wat is yure first questun?

The first questun, I told Pa, is What is a axiom? That is easy, sed Pa, a axiom is the part of a wagon around which the wheels move. Then Ma beegan to laff.

Well, sed Pa, I suppose you mean to say that I am a fool. Yure statement which you have jest made, sed Ma, is a axiom. A axiom, Ma sed, is a self evident truth.

Certingly it is, sed Pa. I was only gilding littel Bobbie. I knew all the time that a axiom was a self evident truth.

Well, sed Ma, that is enuff axioms. Let Mrs. J. dined at the Hotel Gorgeous to-night. She complained that the lettuce in the salad was green, and I had to throw all the dishes out of the window. One landed on a man's head, and when he revived he was quite sanguine for a time, but I really squared him for $10,000.

Mr. J. was much excited over the bill for $10,000.

Why couldn't you pick out a cheaper head than that?" he demanded.

"I hadn't time to haggle or choose," I told him. "I merely had to get everything out of the window quick."

Mr. J. got so mad then that he went down to the Chateau and engaged a couple of charges of dynamite in the cellar, destroying about $5,000 worth of wines.

On the yacht to-day Mrs. J. vexed because the captain wouldn't keep the ship steady. Captain blamed it on the sea and was told to buy a new one.

Mr. J. had the yacht sunk to-day because it wasn't as big as the Lusitania. He tried to get to the Chateau before Mrs. J., but she was there ahead of him and had locked him out. He tore open the door, and Mrs. J. chopped up some tapestry, but otherwise it was a very peaceful morning.

In the hotel to lunch to-day Mrs. J. told me to throw the table and the waiter out of the window. The bouncer was close, and after I looked at him I decided to give up my secretarial duties and look for a quiet, easy job as sparring partner to Ketchel.

The Diary of a Secretary

By C. B. Quincy

SLIGHT mix-up at dinner to-night. Mr. J. threw a couple of plates on the floor and left the table. Mrs. J. said: "Thank goodness, that mutt has gone at last and I can enjoy myself." She smashed all the other plates and went to bed.

Mr. J. was in a bad temper at breakfast. He threw the cut crust of the window and set fire to the tablecloth. Mrs. J. was much annoyed at the sight of the mess and kicked several chunks out of the chandelier. Lord Snooks seemed rather nervous and afterward said he had just got a cablegram calling him to England at once, as a friend of his had just come in for some money and his solicitor thought there was a good chance for a touch.
